April Barr
Oklahoma State Department of Education
Accreditation Division

Oklahoma City, OK 73105-4599

Dear Ms. Barr:

This letter is for submission of a Deregulation Application for the continued authorization for a four-day school week with Friday as a make-up day in our Yukon Alternative Education Program.

We would like to request this waiver be approved for three consecutive school years including 2019-2020, 2020-2021, and 2021-2022. Yukon Alternative School has been operating under a four-day program for the last nine years. We have maintained the same schedule and calendar with extreme success. We keep Friday as a mandatory make-up day, and this has essentially eliminated all attendance issues. It is our plan to continue this schedule indefinitely due to its success and pending support from the OSDE.

Thank you for your review of this application.

Sincerely,

Sheli McAdoo
Assistant Superintendent

STATUTORY WAIVER/DEREGULATION APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

(Oklahoma Deregulation Act, 70 O.S. § 3-124, et seq.)

Accreditation Standards Division

2500 North Lincoln Boulevard, Suite 210 • Oklahoma City, Oklahoma 73105-4599

Statutory Waivers/Deregulations for the next year will be accepted from April 1 through October 1, with the following exceptions:

- Resignation of staff causing changes in library media service requirements after October 1.

Other waivers/deregulations such as teachers attending school to obtain library media specialist certificates, alternative school abbreviated days, and waivers of alternative school coop agreements, should all be decided and applied for by October 1st of the current school year.

(For submission of a Statutory Waiver/Deregulation after October 1, call Accreditation, (405) 521-3335.)

NOTE: Beginning July 1, 2018, waivers and deregulations can be requested for three years. (Library Media Specialist Certificate Exemption must provide proof of enrollment for the applicant every year. Library Media Services must provide a schedule of operation every year.)

If you need technical assistance, please discuss the application with the Accreditation Division, (405) 521-3335.

Preparing the Statutory Waiver/Deregulation

- 1 Submit a cover letter on school letterhead, with the superintendent's signature, with a brief explanation of the request for a statutory waiver/deregulation.
- 2 Complete entire cover page.
 - Original signatures of the Superintendent, Principals, Board President and notary with a stamp/seal are required.
 - Cite the statute/OAC number in Title 70 or the Oklahoma Administrative Code to be waived (See below).
 - The questionnaire following the cover sheet must be answered in order to process the application.
 - For Library Media Specialist (teacher obtaining their LMS degree & certification), the teacher affected must include a letter of their intent to obtain the degree/certificate and proof of their enrollment in classes at a qualified university/college for the area of study.
 - For adjunct teacher waivers: Application must include board minutes approving the teacher as an adjunct (For those teaching more than three hours per day, 270 hours per semester).
 - For abbreviated day deregulation: Application must include a schedule of hours of instruction and numbers of days taught per week.
 - For library media services deregulation: Application must include a schedule of operation for the library, hours the library is open and a list of who is scheduled to cover those hours.

③ A Statutory Waiver/Deregulation can be requested for the following statutes and Oklahoma Administrative Codes:

STATUTORY WAIVERS

- 70 O.S. § 1-112 - Saturday School
- 70 O.S. § 6-122.3 - Adjunct Teachers - teaching for more than three hours a day or 270 clock hours per semester.
- 70 O.S. § 3-126 - Library Media Specialist/waive certification only - teacher attending college/university to obtain Library Media Specialist certification.
- 70 O.S. § 1210.568 - COOP Agreement - When a public school wants to serve fewer than 10 students in the alt ed program instead of COOPing with other districts.

NOTE: Statute 70 O.S. § 1-111 - Two Instructional Days in a 24 Hour Period (Parent Teacher Conference) and 70 O.S. § 1-109 - Extended/Flexible Day no longer requires a statutory waiver.

DEREGULATIONS

- OAC 210:35-5-71 - Library Media Services Elementary School - School is changing the standard of library services for their size school.
- OAC 210:35-7-61 - Library Media Services Middle School - School is changing the standard of library services for their size school.
- OAC 210:35-9-71 - Library Media Services Secondary School - School is changing the standard of library services for their size school.
- OAC 210:35-29-2 - Abbreviated Day Alternative Education - Use both citations for an alternative school to operate with abbreviated hours, less than four hours and 12 minutes of instruction per day, five days a week, or 756 hours per year.
- OAC 210:35-3-46 - Superintendent, Elementary & Secondary Principal certificate - serve as High School and Elementary School Principal with a school enrollment more than 500 (requires a dereg.)

NOTE: OAC 210:35-5-42 & 210:35-9-43 - Planning Period Deregulations, no longer requires a deregulation.

In addition, the School District Empowerment Program, 70 O.S. § 3-129.11, allows a local school district to request to the State Board of Education an exemption from all statutory requirements and State Board of Education rules from which charter schools are currently exempt.

 NAME OF WAIVER

A. Reason for the waiver/deregulation request (be specific).

Attendance is one of the most significant factors in dealing with at-risk students. In the past, we have not had any recourse for addressing attendance issues, except to dismiss the student. After researching this topic and trying several unsuccessful strategies, we devised an attendance policy based on a four-day week. For the past nine years, we have operated under this schedule, reserving Friday as a make-up day. This schedule has been EXTREMELY successful for our program. This schedule allows working students and parenting teens to conduct business (i.e. Dr.'s appt, job interviews, court, etc) on the scheduled day off or allows them to make up time missed for unavoidable absences, thereby reducing and eliminating attendance issues. By our staff adamantly enforcing the make-up policy, most of our students are graduating with perfect attendance. We would like to continue to operate under a four-day week with Friday as a make-up day in order to continue our successful strategy to improve attendance and serve our diverse student population.

B. List alternate strategies/plans which the district/site proposes, and how this plan will best serve the students of your district, i.e., a description of the educational benefits to the students and learning achievement.

The attendance strategy we are using consists of a 4.25 hour day for the Alt. Ed. students with Friday reserved as a make-up day. This schedule has reduced the school calendar for Alt. Ed. students from 182 days to 140 days. They attend Monday through Thursday and if they miss a day for any reason they are required to attend Friday. All time missed is made up by the end of the week. The educational benefits are that the students work very diligently to have perfect attendance during the week to avoid the Friday make-up day. Also, with a 4.25 hour session, these students are able to stay focused and complete actually more work than previous schedules have produced. Due to the condensed schedule, our most at-risk students have shown the most improvement.

C. Educational impact to the district: Results of the Statutory Waiver/Deregulation, i.e., effect on student performance levels, impact of plan on other sites in the district.

This has served our district in a very positive way by almost completely eliminating absences for Alt. Ed. students. My observations over the past nine years of using this schedule have been that at-risk students perform much better on a reduced schedule that consists of focusing on specific academic goals and allowing them to move at an accelerated pace. When I eliminated the attendance issues, my students have shown great progress and our graduation rate is excellent. This schedule has had a very positive impact on the high school in our district. It has allowed us to continue to serve more students by having double sessions during the school day. We can accommodate sixty-six students with our present schedule. Extending the hours would require reducing the number of students due to our limited space and staff at Yukon Alternative. Overall, this schedule has been very beneficial to our students and district. 100% of our staff support and recommend this schedule.

D. Timeline: Please submit class schedule, calendars, assessment forms and other attachments as necessary, or described in instructions.

A waiver/deregulation can be granted for up to 3 years. (Please see instructions for additional requirements)

E. Any financial impact to the District (positive or negative) for the proposed waiver/deregulation.

Positive financial impact to the district include:

Full-time aide salaries reduced by 70 hours.

Utility expenses reduced by 35 1/2 days.

Reduction of special bus services for Alt Ed. by 35 days.

F. Describe method of assessment or evaluation of effectiveness of the plan.

Evaluation effectiveness has been measured by monitoring graduation rate and overall school retention rate.

For that last three years our success rate was 97% or higher.

We also had a 91 out of 94 - Highly Effective on our OSDE evaluation.

All students met State Testing requirements for graduation.

Educational Benefits

NSTA conferences offer the latest in science content, teaching strategy, and research to enhance and expand professional growth, while providing for collaboration with science education leaders and peers. In addition to attending content specific sessions, and special presentations by science leaders, teachers have the opportunity to learn about new technologies and updated resources for teaching science.

The Sky Is Not the Limit: Lessons from a Year in Space

Scott Kelly /// @StationCDRKelly

Retired Astronaut and Retired U.S. Navy Captain
New York, NY

During his record-breaking Year in Space, U.S. astronaut Scott Kelly captivated the world while laying the groundwork for the future of space travel and exploration. And while science was at the core of his groundbreaking expedition—it is his life lessons and personal stories from 229 miles above Earth and the path that led him there that provide such unique and valuable perspective on embracing risk and discovering one's true potential to achieve the impossible.

NSTA wishes to thank Knopf Doubleday and Random House Children's Books for sponsoring this speaker.

A veteran of four space flights, Scott was mission commander on several expeditions to the International Space Station and was a member of the almost yearlong mission aboard the ISS from 2015 to 2016. During the 11-month space mission, he set records for the single longest space mission by an American astronaut...before returning to terra firma with fellow crew member Mikhail Korniyenko of Roscosmos. The goal of the mission was to better understand how the human body is affected by long-term spaceflight. He has written books chronicling his 342 days in space, including Endurance: A Year in Space, A Lifetime of Discovery and for children, My Journey to the Stars.

WEDNESDAY EVENING SPECIAL SESSION

The Many Worlds of Quantum Mechanics

Sean M. Carroll /// @seanmcarroll

Research Professor of Physics, California Institute of Technology

NSTA wishes to thank Penguin Random House for sponsoring this speaker.

One of the great intellectual achievements of the 20th century was the theory of quantum mechanics, according to which observational results can only be predicted probabilistically rather than with certainty. Yet, after decades in which the theory has been successfully used on an everyday basis, most physicists would agree that we still don't truly understand what it means. Join Sean as he discusses the source of this puzzlement, and explains why an increasing number of physicists are led to an apparently astonishing conclusion: that the world we experience is constantly branching into different versions, representing the different possible outcome of quantum measurements. Sean's research has focused on issues of dark matter, dark energy, spacetime symmetries, and the origin of the universe. He has now shifted to examining the foundations of quantum mechanics, the emergence of spacetime, and the evolution of entropy and complexity. Author of several books, his most recent is The Big Picture: On the Origins of Life, Meaning, and the Universe Itself.

Equity: The Power of Understanding the Impacts of Equity and Science Instruction

Joseph Davis

@FFSDSupDavis

Superintendent

Ferguson-Florissant School District, Hazelwood, MO

Tiffany Besse

@MrsBesse2016

Chief Academic Officer

Ferguson-Florissant School District, Hazelwood, MO

Join Joseph Davis and Tiffany Besse as they focus on the importance of serving all children with the high-quality education they deserve, particularly those who statistically are predicted to fail in the current model. Discussion centers on how partnering with NGSS-focused curricula leads to equitable instruction in the science classroom and improvement in overall quality of education for students, teachers, and the community.

After receiving his teaching license through East Carolina University, Joseph Davis continued at ECU earning a Master of School Administration degree and an Educational Specialist degree. Afterward, he earned a second Master's degree in education and a PhD in administration, planning, and social policy, both from the Harvard University Graduate School of Education. He began serving the Ferguson-Florissant School District as superintendent July 2015.

Tiffany Besse is in her second year serving the Ferguson-Florissant School District. Previously, she served the Pattonville School District as the director of Secondary Education and associate principal at Pattonville High School, as well as an assistant principal in the Rockwood School District. She began her teaching career as an AP chemistry and biology teacher in 2000 and holds an Educational Specialist degree in educational leadership and Master of Arts in education administration and teaching from Lindenwood University.

Confluence of Equity and Education

"Arguably, the most pressing challenge facing U.S. education is to provide all students with a fair opportunity to learn" (Framework, NRC 2012, p. 282). This challenge is of great importance as we continue to embrace changing demographics in our classrooms, communities, and country. Our imperative is to maintain high expectations and broaden access and opportunities in STEM education to increase the likelihood of student success and to prepare them to compete globally. This strand will be targeted by level: novice, intermediate, or advanced attendees.

Place-Based Phenomena for Extraordinary Learning

of Field Education
Teton Science Schools
Jackson, WY

Teton Science Schools (TSS) has practiced place-based science learning in the Greater Yellowstone Geo-ecosystem for the past 51 years. TSS's commitment to place-based education is rooted in the philosophy that connecting learning to community increases engagement, learning, and community impacts. Using place-based, relevant, interdisciplinary phenomena as the basis of science learning can serve these same goals. Hear how TSS is practicing place-based education and leave with new ideas to take back to your classroom.

After completing her Master's degree in environmental education at Prescott College, Leslie Cook joined the Teton Science Schools, facilitating training for inservice teachers, as well as working with the graduate program's preservice teachers. In addition, she attended the Wolf Ridge Environmental Learning Center's graduate program.

Kevin Krasnow currently teaches ecology courses at the TSS graduate program. His research focuses on understanding effective science education, fire ecology, global change, ecological restoration, and ecosystem resilience. He has instructed for Outward Bound, taught high school biology and chemistry, and directed an outdoor leadership and science program in San Francisco public schools. He holds a PhD in environmental science, policy, and management from the University of California, Berkeley.

Joe Petrick leads a team of passionate educators who customize field science adventures for groups of all ages. Prior to Teton Science Schools, Joe worked as an administrator, classroom teacher, and outdoor educator in Washington, California, Virginia, Maryland, and South Africa. He holds a MEd from the University of Washington and a graduate certificate in education for environment and community from IslandWood.

Phenomena: Gateway to Learning

Using phenomena in science experiences expands learning. Inclusion of multiple disciplines or subject areas in three-dimensional learning aids in deepening student thinking, learning, and reflecting. This strand will show how teachers can use structures such as the 5E instructional model, Claims-Evidence-Reasoning (CER), Problem-Based Learning, Place-Based Learning, or Project-Based Learning as viable approaches to facilitate student understanding. This strand will be targeted by level: novice, intermediate, or advanced attendees.

Hulahula and Learn Something...Expressing Science Through Culture and Dance

Kiana L. Frank /// @labhuiofrank

Assistant Professor, Pacific Bioscience Research Center
University of Hawaii at Mānoa

Weaving stories from traditional and contemporary scientific observations to explain the world around her—from micro to macro scales—Kiana hopes to advance our understanding of how we fit into and influence our place. The expression of these stories through movement, as was done traditionally in Hawaii through the art of hula (dance), enables the expression of emotion and spirituality that is vital to perpetuating indigenous science and increasing comprehension, engagement, and enthusiasm of science in our students and communities. Expressing science in a cultural context through dance, not only better connects us to a concept or a place, but also engages the imagination by developing connections to that which we cannot see—the multiple layers of meaning and levels of knowledge that cross disciplines to achieve deeper learning.

STRAND

Jazzing Up Science with Cross-Curricular Connections

In the past, science and engineering were often taught in isolation. Using best practices has proven that integrating science and engineering with other content areas or other science disciplines promotes students' mastery of disciplinary core ideas and crosscutting concepts. This strand will focus on ways that science and other subject areas can be integrated, including the best way to bundle disciplinary core ideas. This strand will be targeted by level: novice, intermediate, or advanced attendees.

FEATURED PRESENTATION

Unlocking the Power of the NGSS

Paul Andersen /// @paulandersen

Educational Consultant and YouTube Creator, Bozeman, MT

The NGSS represents the largest conceptual shift in teaching science in decades. This revolution will only occur if teachers implement the standards with fidelity and make pedagogical changes in their classrooms. Join Paul Andersen of Bozeman Science as he shares three-dimensional strategies and resources that have been tested in schools around the world. A 2011 Montana Teacher of the Year, Paul taught high school science in Montana for 20 years using technology and guided inquiry to differentiate instruction for his students. Podcasts of his lectures on biology, chemistry, physics, and Earth science have been viewed millions of times by students around the world. In 2012, Paul was selected by YouTube as one of 10 YouTube Edu Gurus.

STRAND

Three-Dimensional Grand Slam

Shifting science educators' focus from simply teaching science ideas to helping students figure out solutions is exciting. Classrooms incorporating three-dimensional learning have students build models, design investigations, develop explanations, and argue using evidence, all of which allow students to develop important 21st-century skills such as problem solving, critical thinking, communication, collaboration, and self-management. This strand will focus on implementing three-dimensional learning to increase student understanding and will be targeted by level: novice, intermediate, or advanced attendees.

Exploring Nature's Beauty and Teachings

Michael Weiss

Nature Photographer and Photojournalist, Silver Spring, MD

A self-taught award-winning photographer, Mike will share some of his stunning photographs from around the world and tell the background stories of each one. His images and accompanying narrative will provide visually stunning examples of the beauty that surrounds us along with some very important lessons. He will also provide you with some classroom photography exercises that you can share with your students and colleagues.

During his 40-year career as an aerospace engineer and program manager for NASA, he helped train the space-walking crew of NASA's first on-orbit satellite repair mission in 1984. Much of that training occurred underwater, and he, as a support diver, would photograph the training. Mike carried his love for water and photography to the open water—photographing marine wildlife and ecosystems from Hawaii to the Bahamas, Mexico, the Caribbean, and shipwrecks off the eastern United States' coast. Waterproofing a camera costs more than the actual camera, Mike explains. "Underwater photography has a huge learning curve. Every photo you take is a learning experience. In photographing a subject, you learn a lot about that subject and its environment." His photography portfolio includes award-winning images of birds in flight, landscapes, night sky, and marine life. He is also an avid supporter of environmental, wildlife, and natural resources protection.

ROBERT H. CARLETON LECTURE

Connecting the Dots: The Critical Role of Crosscutting Concepts

Cary Snieder

Visiting Scholar, Portland State University

Join Cary as he shares how an activity in reverse engineering will open a door to the crosscutting concepts, illustrating how these important ideas can help K–12 students bring the big picture of science and engineering into focus—just as a dot-to-dot picture is a jumble of numbers until the dots are connected and an image emerges. After teaching middle school and high school science in Maine, California, Costa Rica, and Micronesia, Cary settled for nearly three decades at The Lawrence Hall of Science in Berkeley, California, where he developed skills in curriculum development and teacher education. He also spent 10 years as vice president for Programs at the Museum of Science, Boston. Currently, Cary is a visiting scholar at Portland State University and a consultant for two foundations that support STEM education and environmental causes. He holds a BA degree in astronomy from Harvard College—and a California secondary teaching credential, MA degree, and a PhD in science education from the University of California, Berkeley.

MARY C. MCCURDY LECTURE

Facing Challenges, Making Changes, Changing Lives

Linda Froschauer

2006–2007 NSTA President, and 2009–2018 Field Editor, Science and Children, Pasadena, CA

Recent changes brought about by the creation of the NGSS and new state science standards bring challenges that require significant changes in the way we teach science in the primary and intermediate grades. By meeting these challenges and addressing the shift, we can change the lives of our students by supporting the development of STEM concepts and attitudes. For many of us, this will be a major change and require risk taking, creativity, personal development, and time. But the payoff is great. In this talk, we will look back to what brought us to this point in the evolution of elementary science teaching, the challenges of today, and how to make the changes necessary for creating opportunities that will impact student understanding. Linda K. Froschauer has been a devoted teacher and dedicated leader in science education since 1972. Outside public schools, she has worked as an instructor for Chicago's Museum of Science and Industry; writer/consultant for many publications and numerous organizations; president of several organizations; and as the field editor for the NSTA journal Science and Children.

AGU-NESTA SPONSORED LECTURE

Finding Our Way: The Science Behind Today's GPS Revolution

Theresa Damiani /// @noaaoccean

Chief of the Spatial Reference System Division at NOAA's National Geodetic Survey (NGS), Silver Spring, MD

Theresa's talk explores the science of GPS and mapping, how it allows us to quickly and easily find our way through the world, and the sometimes unexpected ways in which it is revolutionizing our society. And, as positioning science and technology continues to evolve, how it enables a not-too-distant future of autonomous vehicles and smart cities. Her scientific specialty is geodesy and geophysics as well as being a subject matter expert on airborne gravimetry and time-varying gravity, which includes research into kinematic GPS/GNSS and inertial positioning, gravimetric geodesy, tectonics, and crustal structure. Theresa has been a geodesist with NGS since 2009, when she was recruited out of graduate school to start up field operations for the Gravity for the Redefinition of the American Vertical Datum (GRAV-D) project. In addition, she was one of 120 finalists in 2016 (out of 18,000 applicants) selected for in-person interviews with NASA for the next class of astronauts. She holds a PhD in geophysics and seismology from The University of Texas at Austin.

PAUL F-BRANDWEIN LECTURE

Saving Life, Saving Ourselves

Peter H. Raven

President Emeritus, Missouri Botanical Garden and George Engelmann Professor Emeritus of Botany at Washington University in St. Louis

More than three times as many people (7.6 billion) inhabit the world now as they did when I was born (1936), and the demand we are placing on the productivity of our planet is approaching twice what it can sustain (www.footprintnetwork.org). Our numbers are growing at about 200,000 net per day toward a predicted 9.9 billion 30 years from now. In consequence of these pressures, a fifth of all kinds of living organisms could be extinct within the next two or three decades, and as many as half, most of which are unknown scientifically, by the end of the century. We have a unique opportunity to make matters better by limiting our numbers; adopting moderate, fair consumption standards; empowering women and children everywhere; spreading love for all people everywhere in the world; slowing and ultimately halting climate change; and acting sustainably in our own lives, learning about change, and voting for people who are committed to understand and address the worst challenge humanity has ever faced. We cannot all be "the greatest" on a limited planet whose capacity we are already exceeding—we manage the planet and its resources together. We need to seize this opportunity now before through neglect and selfishness, it is gone. In addition to heading the Missouri Botanical Garden for more than 39 years, Peter is a trustee of the National Geographic Society and chair of Committee for Research and Exploration.

NSTA wishes to thank Brandwein Institute for sponsoring this speaker.

NSTA/ASE HONORS EXCHANGE LECTURE

The Role of Assessment in Developing a New Science Curriculum

Mary Whitehouse /// @MaryUYSEG

Chair of The Association for Science Education and Honorary Fellow at the University of York Science Education Group, UK

When thinking about developing a new curriculum, the assessment of that curriculum should be at the front of the developers' minds. There are important reasons for this. Firstly, writing assessment items at the same time as writing the intended outcomes helps to clarify those outcomes for the developer. And secondly, the assessment of the curriculum will signal to teachers what they need to teach. In this talk, Mary Whitehouse will use examples to show how the development of assessment alongside the curriculum content can be used to support the teaching and learning of science. Mary began teaching physics in 1974 in a large 11–18 high school in Cambridge, UK. After teaching in both schools and college, she became a leading member of the University of York Science Education Group where she led the 21st-Century Science and York Science projects. She is a Chartered Science Teacher and a Fellow of the Institute of Physics.

NSTA wishes to thank The Association for Science Education (ASE) for sponsoring this speaker.

The Best Place to Explore Three-Dimensional Teaching and Learning

NGSS@NSTA Forum

Friday, April 12 • 226, America's Center

This year's NGSS@NSTA Forum focuses on instructional materials. The opening session describes tools you can use to evaluate resources and then five additional sessions highlight instructional units designed to address three-dimensional standards. Visit bit.ly/2RSFh0T for a list of the sessions.

NGSS@NSTA Share-a-Thon

Saturday, April 13 • 9:30–10:30 AM

Hall 1, America's Center

At the NGSS@NSTA Share-a-Thon, meet education experts from around the country, and get tips and tools to help implement three-dimensional instruction. Leave with plenty of handouts and ideas you can use in your classroom right away!

Linking Literacy Event

Friday and Saturday, April 12–13, 2019

Join science teachers from across the globe for a special event focusing on science and children's literature! All are invited; however the event is especially geared toward elementary teachers looking for strategies to increase science instruction while meeting ELA standards as well.

Highlights of the event include:

- Hearing directly from great authors of trade books as they celebrate their work, discuss their books, and suggest how to use them in the classroom.
- Engaging in small group “Conversations with Authors” about how their books can help bring forth equity, promote three-dimensional science, and offer phenomena to engage readers and make cross-curricular connections.

Come join us for a conference feature that is sure to be a hit as we link literacy with science.

Professional Learning Institutes

Professional Learning Institutes (PLIs) are focused, content-based programs that explore key topics in science and STEM education in depth. Presented by experts in science and STEM education, professional learning, standards implementation, assessment, curriculum, and resources development, PLIs are scheduled on Wednesday, April 10, 9:00 AM to 4:00 PM. For complete descriptions, a list of presenters, and to purchase tickets, visit www.nsta.org/conferences/PLI. (Tickets Required)

Designing Meaningful STEM Lessons (PLI-1)

Ticket Price: $125, with conference registration

The question, “What does STEM look like in the classroom?” typically prompts a wide variety of responses. In their book, Designing Meaningful STEM Lessons, Dr. Huling and Dr. Speake propose a solution to this question: StEMTify your lessons! Science standards in all states have consistent big ideas—it is how we teach and frame the content that makes a significant difference in student learning and retention of important science concepts. The authors’ goal is to help teachers increase the efficacy of their current science lessons by substituting the StEMT process into already existing lessons to ensure real-world application using mathematics and engineering design.

Becoming a Practitioner of Science: Engaging Students in Solving Real Earth Science Problems in Earth, Physical, or Environmental Science Classrooms (PLI-2)

Ticket Price: $125, with conference registration

Students engaged in authentic three-dimensional learning benefit from teachers who are practitioners of science—curious and reflective individuals participating in their own sense-making as they guide students in doing science. This PLI engages participants in the role of true practitioner, experiencing the feeling of “not-yet-understanding” during the investigation of three Earth systems problems. Participants will leave with a deeper understanding of how to integrate Earth science into an interdisciplinary curriculum and how to mentor students during authentic investigations.

Next Generation Analyzing Instructional Materials (Next Gen AIM) (PLI-3)

Ticket Price: $125, with conference registration

Are you planning to adopt new science instructional materials for your district or school? If so, you know this is an important, but challenging process. Claims about the standards alignment are common in materials, but which ones will really help teachers hone their craft? With new science standards, limited resources, and diverse student needs to consider—where do you even begin?

NextGen TIME includes a suite of tools and processes designed to guide your deep dive into next generation science and to support you in the evaluation, selection, and implementation of new materials. The full process of NextGen TIME is often spread out over an extended period of time, but this professional learning experience will ground you in the core processes while helping you see through alignment claims. You will learn to identify important qualities necessary in instructional materials that are designed for the NGSS or other standards rooted in A Framework for K–12 Science Education.

Selecting Anchoring Phenomena for Equitable 3D Teaching (PLI-4)

Ticket Price: $125, with conference registration

Selecting an anchoring phenomenon that meets standards and is compelling to all students is one of the most challenging aspects of three-dimensional science curriculum and assessment. In this PLI, participants engage in a systematic process of analyzing the standards, brainstorming candidate phenomena, soliciting student input, and developing explanatory models of phenomena in order to select an anchoring phenomenon for a sequence of instruction.

GRADUATE-LEVEL CREDIT/ TRANSCRIPTS

Graduate-Level Credits/Units

Earn one (1) or two (2) graduate-level credit/units in professional development through Dominican University of California (dominicancaonline.com). To obtain credit/units, you must be registered for the NSTA St. Louis National Conference, complete the required assignments, and pay a fee. Check back at www.nsta.org/stlouis for complete details.

Transcripts

NSTA offers professional development certification (based on clock hours) for its conferences. The transcript, which lists the sessions attended, also serves as proof of attendance at the conference. NSTA acknowledges up to 26 hours of credit for a national conference. Please note that these hours are not graduate/continuing education units. It is attendees' responsibility to forward their transcript to the school administration in accordance to their state's qualifications. NSTA does not send this information to the school administration. Most administrations recognize NSTA conference attendance as professional development credits toward enhancing teachers' skills and education.

All conference attendees will be e-mailed instructions for accessing their respective transcripts. All information in these transcripts will be maintained (and can be accessed) indefinitely as part of an attendee's individual profile.

ONE-DAY LIVESTREAM EVENT!

Saturday, April 13, 8:00 AM–1:30 PM

NSTA is offering a one-day live streaming program on Saturday, April 13, during the St. Louis National Conference. This livestream is geared toward elementary educators who are not able to attend the full conference but are interested in taking advantage of some of the professional development opportunities that are available to this specific audience. This program is being offered at a special introductory rate of $75 for NSTA members; and $99 for nonmembers. A copy of the preliminary agenda is included below. For registration details, please visit www.nsta.org/stlouis after January 15, 2019.

8:00–9:00 AM	Kickoff: Featured Presentation by Sean Carroll (California Institute of Technology), “ The Many Worlds of Quantum Mechanics ”
9:00–9:30 AM	Prerecorded conference footage/interviews from WebsEdge
9:30–10:30 AM	Breakout Session #1: Emily Morgan and Karen Ansberry , “ Picture-Perfect STEM Lessons: Using Children’s Books to Inspire STEM Learning, K–5. ”
10:30–11:00 AM	Prerecorded conference footage/interviews from WebsEdge
11:00 AM–12 Noon	Breakout Session #2: Carla Zembal-Saul , “ Bringing English Learners into Focus Through Next Generation Science. ”
12 Noon–12:30 PM	Prerecorded conference footage/interviews from WebsEdge
12:30–1:30 PM	Breakout Session #3: Mary McCurdy Presentation by Linda Froschauer , “ Facing Challenges, Making Changes, Changing Lives ”

Educational Trips

Discover what St. Louis has to offer on one of our ticketed educational trips. For complete descriptions (including departure locations and additional notes) and to purchase tickets, visit www.nsta.org/stlouisbrowser. (Tickets Required)

Global Conversations: Welcome to My Elementary Classroom (W-1)

Date: Wednesday, April 10, 7:20–11:45 AM

Global Conversations: Welcome to My High School Classroom (W-2)

Date: Wednesday, April 10, 7:20–11:45 AM

Ticket Price: $30; by preregistration only

Welcome to My Classroom is a program sponsored by NSTA's International Advisory Board and is intended primarily for international participants to view science classrooms. This year, trip participants will visit Maple Richmond Heights Elementary School or the Collegiate School of Medicine and Bioscience. Participants will be split into groups where half will visit the elementary school, and the other half will visit the high school. Time has been set aside for participants to observe and interact with teachers and students at their selected location.

Those with W-1 tickets will visit Maple Richmond Heights Elementary School, a grades 3–6 elementary school in which teaching and learning are focused by using the “School As Museum” metaphor to organize classroom projects. For more information, visit www.mrhschools.net/elementary-school/about-us.

Those with W-2 tickets will visit the Collegiate School of Medicine and Bioscience, an innovative college preparatory grades 9–12 high school with high expectations for its academic team and student body. For more information, visit www.slps.org/collegiate.

A Living Laboratory: FOOD ROOF Farm Tour (T-1)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 8:15–10:30 AM

Ticket Price: $11 advance; $16 on-site

Get a glimpse into rooftop farming in downtown St. Louis at FOOD ROOF Farm! Not your typical farm, Urban Harvest STL led the collaboration of architects, landscape architects, green roof experts, horticulturalists, structural engineers, agronomists, and urban farmers to create this internationally recognized project. This hour-long tour includes a brief overview of Urban Harvest STL and the history of the FOOD ROOF Farm, followed by a farm walk with in-depth explanations of each component of the farm, from hydroponic towers to the agricultural green roof system to chickens to an edible wall. For more information, visit www.urbanharveststl.org/food-roof-farm-1.

Note: Participants must be able to walk up flights of stairs. The rooftop is only accessible by two flights of stairs.

Date: Thursday, April 11, 9:00 AM–2:45 PM

Ticket Price: $82; by preregistration only

Become a “Jr. Astronaut” by going on a simulated space mission and making compressed-air rockets. Then engage in a hands-on workshop that integrates reading, writing, and math into astronomy by doing standards-based activities that take the unreachable and make it hands on. Junior Astronauts programs are geared toward students ages 6 to 11. Strategies will be shared for embedding STEM throughout the curriculum. Leave with at least three classroom-ready lesson plans and a renewed excitement for the wonders of space exploration. Box lunch is included.

Uncover the Marvels of Botanical Engineering at Missouri Botanical Garden (T-3)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 9:30 AM–12:15 PM

Ticket Price: $41 advance; $46 on-site

Join us for a guided tour at the Missouri Botanical Garden focusing on botanical engineering. Survival for plants often means finding innovative ways to overcome challenges in the environment! Explore the adaptations that plants have devised that enable them to survive. This tour includes the Climatron, Temperate House, and Linnaean House. Be sure to bring your NSTA conference badge as this will serve as your entrance credentials.

Special Offer for St. Louis conference registrants

Show your NSTA St. Louis Conference Badge and receive complimentary admission to the Butterfly House for a self-guided tour, courtesy of the Missouri Botanical Garden. Great care was taken in the design and engineering of the 8,000-square-foot glass conservatory garden to assure a natural and safe habitat for the butterflies. As many as 80 butterfly species and 150 tropical plant species are exhibited.

*The Butterfly House is located at Faust Park, 15193 Olive Blvd., Chesterfield, MO 63017 (a 40-minute drive from America's Center). The Butterfly Garden is open Tuesday–Sunday 10:00 AM to 4:00 PM (closed Mondays) Last admission is at 3:30 PM. Visit bit.ly/2yf2kud for more information.

The SCIENCE of Modern Agriculture (T-4)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 12:15–5:00 PM

Ticket Price: $36; by preregistration only

As a global enterprise in the life science fields of health care and agriculture, Bayer is committed to improving people's lives—with its defining purpose: Science for a better life. Bayer extends a special invite to science teachers to tour their world-class Crop Science research facility in Chesterfield, Missouri. A visit to a Growth Chamber and Greenhouses will show how researchers test variables in controlled and semi-controlled environments to ensure we are creating safe and improved products. The Technical Discovery Center, staffed by a team specializing in machine technology, metrology, and instrumentation, will feature some of the innovative creations designed in-house in collaboration with researchers. You will also learn about Climate FieldView, an integrated digital platform that helps farmers optimize resources and maximize yield with simple data collection and storage, easy-to-use digital tools, and science-driven insights.

A Trip Back in Time: Cahokia Mounds (F-1)

Date: Friday, April 12, 8:45 AM–12 Noon

A Trip Back in Time: Cahokia Mounds (S-1)

Date: Saturday, April 13, 8:45 AM–12 Noon

Ticket Price: $39 advance; $44 on-site

Travel back in time on this visit to the Cahokia Mounds State Historic Site. This sophisticated prehistoric civilization occupied the Cahokia area from A.D. 700 to A.D. 500, vanishing before the Europeans arrived. We'll begin our self-guided visit at the Interpretative Center where we'll see a short orientation movie, City of the Sun; a reproduction of a Mississippian village; and an exhibit gallery that incorporates genuine artifacts found in Cahokia. Weather permitting, we'll enjoy a walking tour of the Plaza, climb the 100-foot-high Monk Mound, and see a wooden Sun calendar. Comfortable clothing and shoes are recommended, as well as hats, sunscreen, bottled water, and insect repellent.

Discovering Shaw Nature Reserve Tour (F-2)

Date: Friday, April 12, 9:00 AM–1:00 PM

Ticket Price: $35 advance; $40 on-site

Learn about Missouri's native plants, wildlife, and landscapes at Shaw Nature Reserve, a division of the Missouri Botanical Garden. The Nature Reserve is a premier educational, research, and habitat restoration and reconstruction site. Explore prairies, woodlands, and wetlands with the Nature Reserve's team of environmental educators as they share hands-on, inquiry-based activities and information. Be sure to bring your NSTA conference badge as this will serve as your entrance credentials. Travel time is roughly one hour each way.

Date: Friday, April 12, 9:00 AM–2:45 PM

Ticket Price: $82; by preregistration only

Launch new learning with a trip to Challenger Learning Center. Participants will spend two hours taking on the roles of scientists, astronauts, and engineers in a simulated space mission, and then engage in a two-hour hands-on workshop exploring ways to implement engineering design concepts into middle school and high school classrooms. After learning how to make several projects, they will discuss how to move students along the continuum from doing activities to actively carrying out projects. Box lunch is included.

Effective Outdoor Learning (F-4)

Date: Friday, April 12, 1:00–5:00 PM

Ticket Price: $41 advance; $46 on-site

Come spend a few hours immersed in Missouri prairie and woodland spaces as you learn about a proven model for engaging students in outdoor investigations. The Litzsinger Road Ecology Center is a 34-acre natural space in the middle of suburban St. Louis devoted to place-based education programs that promote environmental citizenship. After a brief welcome, you'll work in small groups with colleagues who teach similar ages as you gain hands-on experience with a variety of ways to make your field investigations come alive. As you work, we'll share everything from high-level planning frameworks down to our favorite low-cost tools that have proven useful as teachers strive to meet curriculum expectations through dynamic inquiry. We'll also share tips for how to use technology in ways that extend students' inquiry.

Note: Come dressed for the weather, and bring a water bottle and a small notebook if you'd like. Snacks and coffee will be provided.

Short Courses

All short courses are filled on a first-come, first-served basis, so act now! For complete descriptions and to purchase tickets, visit www.nsta.org/stlouisbrowser. (Tickets Required)

Ramps and Pathways: Integrative STEM and Literacy Experiences That Occur Daily Within the Literacy Block (SC-1)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 3:00–6:00 PM

Ticket Price: $41 advance; $46 on-site

Many primary grade educators are comfortable teaching literacy, yet uncomfortable teaching science. In this short course, participants will experience and discuss the crosscutting concept of cause and effect as they participate in an NSF-funded experience and design and build marble runs using wooden unit blocks, tracks, and objects to move. In the process of building marble runs, participants will begin to identify with children's fascination with force and motion phenomena and how to control it. In addition, presenters will model how this STEM learning can be a meaningful part of the literacy instructional block.

Ocean Plastic Pollution: Issues and Solutions (SC-2)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 3:00–6:00 PM

Ticket Price: $34 advance; $39 on-site

Enrich your classroom with NGSS-focused activities surrounding plastic pollution issues and solutions. Activities will highlight plastic's physical and chemical properties, including density and buoyancy. Not only will we emphasize looking at the impacts of prolific plastic use, but we will also explore solutions to plastic pollution, alternatives to single-use plastics, and empowering students to tackle environmental problems without experiencing ecofatigue. This short course will include strategies to encourage critical thinking about environmental issues and methods to help students gain awareness and examination of everyday resources and uses. Empower your students to become part of the plastic pollution solution! Door prizes and resources!

Turning Cookie Cutter Labs into Cutting-Edge Inquiry Experiments (SC-3)

Date: Thursday, April 11, 3:00–6:00 PM

Ticket Price: $18 advance; $23 on-site

Have tons of cookie cutter labs that aren't student-centered? Let's work on shifting the traditional labs into 3-D inquiry-based experimentation, projects, and investigations. Leave with resources to launch your own exploration at your school. Participants are encouraged to bring their tablet/laptop.

Developing and Using Models for Better Conceptual Understanding (SC-4)

Date: Friday, April 12, 8:00–11:00 AM

Strand: Three-Dimensional Grand Slam

This short course will engage participants in unpacking the second NGSS practice: developing and using models. Having students develop models contributes to their understanding of phenomena and serves as reliable assessment of conceptual understanding. Participants will examine a variety of ways to represent a phenomena and discuss the ways that scientists, engineers, and mathematicians use models in their daily work. Participants will then engage in two hands-on tasks—the mystery tube activity, adapted to emphasize the predictive nature and adaptability of models, and a second modeling activity will be chosen from: the solar system, habitats, or natural hazards. Bring a modeling activity you have conducted in your classroom, if available. For more information, visit bit.ly/2rd1159.

Short Course SC-3: Turning Cookie Cutter Labs into Cutting-Edge Inquiry Experiments

Blending the E and the S in STEM (SC-5)

Date: Friday, April 12, 10:30 AM–4:30 PM

Strand: Jazzing Up Science with Cross-Curricular Connections

In this short course, we will explore the integration of engineering into science classrooms in ways that motivate deep learning of science and engineering via doable instructional shifts. This research-based and reality-driven approach is based on tested resources built on a research foundation for layering the NGSS engineering design process into elementary classrooms and secondary science courses. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

Introducing ML-PBL: NGSS- and CCSS-Focused Elementary Project-Based Learning Unit(s) (SC-6)

Date: Friday, April 12, 10:30 AM–5:00 PM

Ticket Price: $68 advance; $73 on-site

Experience middle level project-based NGSS-focused curriculum/instructional units, vetted by Achieve, that engage students in making sense of phenomena and solving problems. Shared units include designing fun moving toys and an activity on squirrel adaptation. Bring a laptop or other device for accessing electronic resources, as well as a pencil or pen. Leave with handouts; access to electronic resources, and materials for experiencing two sample units. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

Promoting Children’s Science Inquiry and Thinking About Living Things in Preschool and Kindergarten (SC-7)

Date: Friday, April 12, 1:00–4:00 PM

Ticket Price: $25 advance; $30 on-site

Strand: Phenomena: Gateway to Learning

For preservice and inservice early childhood/elementary educators—experience life science inquiry and build your knowledge of core ideas and concepts related to living things. Participants will investigate a variety of plants and “mini-beasts,” make claims, construct explanations, and reason about organisms’ characteristics, needs, habitats, and life cycles. Learn strategies for propagating plants and maintaining “mini beasts” in the early childhood/elementary setting. For more information, visit www.nsta.org/earlyyears and www.edc.org/cindy-hoisington.

Designing and Using Three-Dimensional Assessments in Your Classroom (SC-8)

Date: Friday, April 12, 1:00–5:00 PM

Ticket Price: $31 advance; $36 on-site

Strand: Three-Dimensional Grand Slam

Join us to learn a systematic way to design three-dimensional assessments you can use to inform your teaching and improve learning! We will guide participants through a process of adapting existing tasks or generating new tasks to assess a bundle of performance expectations. Participants will be supported in planning a cycle of implementation, analysis, feedback, and revision to refine their tasks and in planning how they will incorporate tasks into instruction.

GREAT Projects: A Scaffolded Approach to Phenomenon-, Problem- and Project-Based Learning (SC-9)

Date: Saturday, April 13, 8:00 AM–2:30 PM

Ticket Price: $28 advance; $33 on-site

Join us to explore engaging students in real-world problem-solving, making STEM meaningful for girls and children of color, and empowering kids to make a difference, while integrating PBL with three-dimensional science. Take home ecoSTEM water and citizen science kits. Bring a laptop/tablet. Note: Participants should also dress for outdoor activities and bring a water bottle as we will go off-site to Gateway Arch Park for a portion of the short course. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

Equity Through STEM (SC-10)

Date: Saturday, April 13, 9:00 AM–2:00 PM

Ticket Price: $56 advance; $61 on-site

Strand: Confluence of Equity and Education

Several key issues of equity and diversity in STEM education will be addressed, including aspects of NGSS, Appendix D, All Standards, All Students: Making the NGSS Accessible to All Students. Participants will experience several unique “tools” as they reflect upon, and discuss, many of the assumptions, values, and practices that hinder the STEM education of students of color. They will expand their own cultural competency, diversity awareness, and perspectives on racism, bias, and social justice. Participants should be prepared to meet, share, and learn with/ from other “equity-minded” colleagues to develop supportive alliances and collaboratively work to provide a more equitable—and effective—STEM educational system for ALL students. Take home a copy of Ripples of Hope. Bring materials to take notes. For more information, visit www.cusamacademy.org. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

Short Course SC-5: Blending the E and the S in STEM

The World Ender: A NASA Cross-Disciplinary PBL Unit (SC-11)

Date: Saturday, April 13, 9:00 AM–2:00 PM

Ticket Price: $71 advance; $76 on-site

Strand: Phenomena: Gateway to Learning

What would you do if an asteroid were headed toward Earth? Come explore a NASA PBL/Engineering Design curriculum, touching on a plethora of cross-disciplinary standards. The World Ender curriculum includes multiple lessons covering both Earth and space sciences and physical sciences—particularly on an engineering design challenge in which students must develop a process for redirecting an asteroid, including harvesting or mining it. Bring your laptop/tablet. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

GLOBE Weather: A New NGSS-Based Middle School Unit (SC-12)

Date: Saturday, April 13, 9:00 AM–2:00 PM

Ticket Price: $18 advance; $23 on-site

We will share a new free unit about the science of weather that combines activities, data analysis, modeling, and weather measurements using GLOBE Program protocols. The curriculum helps students understand NGSS-based weather concepts such as the uneven heating of Earth, local and global atmospheric circulation, and air mass formation and collision as they investigate weather patterns and extreme weather events that we experience. Note: Bring clothing appropriate for being outdoors for about 30 minutes during this short course. A 30-minute break for lunch on own is included.

OpenSciEd Frequently Asked Questions

What, exactly, is OpenSciEd?

- OpenSciEd is an effort among science educators, curriculum developers, teachers and philanthropic foundations to improve the supply of and demand for high-quality K-12 science instructional materials by producing free courses designed for new college and career-ready science standards.
- OpenSciEd is creating a set of exemplary science instructional materials that are:
 - designed and aligned to the Framework and the NGSS;
 - based on research regarding how students learn, what motivates learning, and the implications for teaching
 - developed with educators and extensively piloted by teachers and schools;
 - designed to be used with low-cost, standard laboratory equipment and materials amenable to large-scale deployment; and
 - improved over time based on feedback from teachers and piloting.
- All OpenSciEd products will be freely available to download once they are completed.

Why was OpenSciEd launched?

- OpenSciEd was launched to address the demand for high-quality, open-source, full-course science instructional materials, as well as to support the implementation of science instructional units.
- OpenSciEd seeks to ensure any science teacher, anywhere, can access and download freely available, high-quality, locally adaptable full-course materials.

What is the ultimate goal for OpenSciEd?

- OpenSciEd will foster a large community of science teachers and education leaders who adopt, adapt, and enact high-quality science instructional materials to create a generation of students that has a greater scientific knowledge base, the ability to think and reason scientifically and a deep appreciation of science disciplines.
- OpenSciEd will provide a vibrant and thriving pipeline of freely available, open-source, full-course science instructional materials based on the Framework and the NGSS that will empower educators in the classroom and support student learning.

Is OpenSciEd a completed initiative?

- Not at all! OpenSciEd is a multi-year effort that is now just in its beginning stages, initially focusing on grades 6-8. There will be many opportunities for states and science educators to get involved.

Why is the initial focus on middle school?

- Science education in middle school continues to lay the foundation for later learning in high school and college-level science courses, which further helps prepare students for post-secondary learning and career opportunities.
- Middle school science is typically taught by a science specialist in a dedicated science class, which is often not the case in elementary schools.

Is OpenSciEd a national initiative, or are science educators from only certain states involved?

- Ten partner states volunteered to join this effort and are involved through the state department of education, collaborations of multiple districts with a lead representative, or other regional education agencies working with specific schools. The partner states are California, Iowa, Louisiana, Massachusetts, Michigan, New Mexico, New Jersey, Oklahoma, Rhode Island, and Washington.
- Each partner state—and specific districts, schools and teachers in those states—participated in curriculum-based professional learning during Summer 2018, in preparation for the Fall 2018 pilot of three units of instruction in grades 6-8.
- Initial units will be piloted by partner states in Fall 2018 and Spring 2019, revised based on feedback from states, schools, and teachers, and available for wider distribution by Fall 2019.

Are science educators playing a role in OpenSciEd?

- Absolutely! OpenSciEd works with classroom educators, experienced science curriculum developers, individual school districts, Achieve and the science education community to create and pilot robust, research-based, open-source science instructional materials that are designed for the Framework and the NGSS.
- OpenSciEd believes it is essential that science teachers and leaders are actively involved in the design, development, and enactment of instructional materials, and all help shape resources to focus on the unique science learning needs of today's students. This is incredibly rewarding and empowering for our nation's educators and ultimately, our students.

Will OpenSciEd instructional materials address individual needs of states?

- Each state is creating its own locally appropriate mechanism to pilot units, collect data, and listen to feedback from teachers, schools and educators about this work.
- Though OpenSciEd will ultimately have broad appeal, it will always be a locally driven initiative. Upon completion, the instructional materials will be freely available to anyone and can be customized to suit the users' needs.

Why are we talking about science – aren't mathematics and English Language Arts the most important subjects?

- Science—and therefore science education—is central to the lives of all Americans, particularly students, preparing them to be successful in their educational, personal and professional endeavors.
- Our nation's future leaders require—and deserve—a world-class science education that is knowledge-rich, encourages discovery, and will give them what they need to not only effectively prepare for jobs that may not yet exist, but to thrive in the world of tomorrow.
- An in-depth understanding of science content and gaining scientific reasoning skills -- such as analytics, problem-solving and data interpretation -- will be crucial to students as they pursue their careers.
- Science also provides context and support for other subject areas, such as mathematics and English Language Arts and literacy.

Why the emphasis on high-quality instructional materials?

- When teachers have access to great instructional materials, they can focus their time, energy and creativity on bringing lessons to life and finding ways to inspire their students to learn and grow based on their unique needs and interests.
- High-quality science instructional materials must be accessible to all teachers if they are going to help students become informed citizens and knowledgeable users of today's rapidly expanding technological innovations.
- Too many teachers are provided with outdated and unaligned instructional materials, sending them online, in search of foundational materials.

- Science teachers spend an average of seven hours per week searching for appropriate instructional materials (both freely available and paid for) and an additional five hours per week creating materials to accompany their lessons.

What criteria are used to deem science instructional materials as “high-quality?”

- High-quality is defined as well-designed and well-crafted instructional materials reviewed and approved by independent, third-party experts (such as EdReports and Achieve) using widely agreed upon criteria.

What does OER stand for and mean?

- Open Educational Resources (OER) are freely available materials that can be downloaded, edited, locally adapted and shared to better serve all students.
- OER materials make both distribution faster (they’re downloadable) and localization easier (they can be edited).
- Because they’re freely available, OER materials are available to all schools and districts.
- OER materials can continuously evolve because they are being used and adapted by classroom teachers in real time.
- Based on early research, OER materials show promise in improving student outcomes and provide more empowerment opportunities for teachers.

What if my district and state don’t want to become involved with OpenSciEd?

- OpenSciEd will make no requirements to schools, districts or states; instructional materials adoptions will remain the purview of schools and districts under each district or state’s current laws and policies.

Have all 50 states adopted the Next Generation Science Standards?

- To date, 19 states and the District of Columbia, representing more than 35 percent of U.S. students (Arkansas, California, Connecticut, Delaware, Hawaii, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Nevada, New Hampshire, New Jersey, New Mexico, Oregon, Rhode Island, Vermont and Washington) have adopted the NGSS. Additionally, 20 states have adopted new science standards whose development was influenced by the Framework and the NGSS.

The district will not regulate or take any adverse action against an employee for holding a medical marijuana license. The school district may take action against an employee who possesses a medical marijuana license if the employee uses or possesses marijuana while at school or during the hours of employment as per 63 O.S. § 424.

Students whose medical condition requires the use of medical marijuana are allowed to access and utilize marijuana in accordance with state law. School personnel are not legally permitted to administer medical marijuana to students. The district will provide a private location for a caregiver to administer medical marijuana to students at school. Oklahoma law limits who may act as a caregiver and any caregiver will have a medical marijuana license designating them to act on behalf of a student. The caregiver is responsible for bringing the medical marijuana to the qualifying student and promptly removing the medical marijuana from the premises after consumption or use.

Upon arriving at school, the caregiver will follow district protocol with regard to check in and departure.

There will be no smoking on school premises of any substance 24/7 in accordance with the state's no smoking act. At no time will marijuana be grown or stored on school premises.

School employees will not under any circumstances:

- a. Assist students in obtaining or using medical marijuana;
- b. Store medical marijuana for students;
- c. Take and/or use a student's medical marijuana;
- d. Serve as a student's designated caregiver, unless the student is the child or in the legal custody of the employee.

The district reserves the right to discipline employees or students who fail to adhere to Oklahoma law and/or the requirements of this policy. Such disciplinary action will be addressed in accordance with the student discipline code and/or the standards of conduct for employees. Employees may be subject to termination or non-reemployment.

If a student has specific procedures regarding medical marijuana that are written into the student's Individualized Education Program (IEP) and such procedures are consistent with state and federal law, those provisions will take precedence over this policy.

Should the federal government declare that federal funds provided to the District are jeopardized by this policy or asks the District to cease and desist the implementation of this policy, this policy shall be suspended immediately and the District will comply with any federal guidance and/or directives related to this policy.

STUDENT DRESS CODE
Adoption Date: September 9, 2013	Revision Date(s): 03/04/2019	Page 1 of 2

General: There exists a correlation between the quality of a student’s performance, conduct, and appearance. Therefore, all students are expected to be groomed and dressed appropriately. Clothing and grooming must be such that they do not constitute a health or safety hazard. Grooming and dress must not constitute a distraction or interfere with educational opportunities of other students.

Principals, in conjunction with sponsors, coaches, or other persons in charge of extracurricular activities, may regulate dress and grooming of students who participate in a particular activity if the principal reasonably believes that the student's dress or grooming creates a hazard, or may prevent, interfere with, or adversely affect the purpose, direction, or effort required for the activity to achieve its goals. Clothing normally worn when participating in a school-sponsored extracurricular or sports activity may be worn to school when approved by the sponsor or coach.

If a student's dress or grooming is objectionable under the above provisions, the principal shall request the student to make appropriate corrections. If the student declines, the principal shall notify the student's parents or legal guardian and request that person to make the necessary correction. If both the student and parent or legal guardian refuse, the principal shall take appropriate disciplinary action. The principal's judgment concerning the appropriateness of clothing is final.

Students who violate provisions of the dress code and who refuse to correct the violation may be disciplined by removal or exclusion from extracurricular activities. In extreme cases, students may be suspended until the violation is corrected.

Specific Prohibitions:

The following are specifically prohibited:

1. All shorts and skirts must be mid-thigh or longer in length.
2. Fishnet shirts, tank tops, string or spaghetti strap tops, halter tops, tube tops, backless articles, and shirts or blouses that do not overlap skirts or trousers, unless worn over an appropriate sleeved undergarment. Shirts must cover the chest. Bare midriffs and shoulders are not permitted; one's cleavage must be unexposed.
3. Writing or pictures on clothing or patches that suggest obscenity or vulgarity, or that promote activities prohibited by the District code of conduct. Students are not permitted to wear any clothing with suggestive or derogatory pictures or phrases, or advertising of alcohol, tobacco, or drugs.
4. Indoor wearing of hats or caps or other headgear.
5. Any clothing and/or jewelry/accessory deemed to be related to violence, gang activity, or that promote activities prohibited are not prohibited. No spiked jewelry.

6. Pants with holes above mid-thigh. Pants must be worn in such a way that does not allow for undergarments to show. Sagging is not permitted.
7. Such accessories as bandannas, gloves, chains, ropes, straps, head scarves, sunglasses (inside buildings), etc.
8. Blankets and pajamas at the middle school and high school are not permitted.
9. Exceptions to the dress code may be made by the principal for spirit days or special activities.

Student attire must be adequate to ensure a decent appearance. Traditional footwear must be worn at all times.

With ever-changing styles, additional guidelines may be established to help maintain high standards. There may be changes, interpretations, or exceptions to the dress code as deemed necessary by administrators. These changes or interpretations will be dependent upon safety conditions or situations that develop.

Administration retains the discretion to approve deviations from this policy for legitimate reasons, including religious tenets and beliefs and health issues, as determined appropriate and necessary.

1. Teacher leadership in rural schools

Paper/presentation

Rural school teachers' leadership

Maria de Lourdes Vilorio, Texas A&M International University

Marcela Uribe, Texas A&M International University

Weam Al-Tameemi, Texas State University

Selina Mireles, University of Texas of the Permian Basin

Jane Elizabeth Casey, University of Texas of the Permian Basin

This presentation highlights the Professional Development for Secondary School Teachers and Educational Professionals (PD-STEP) into the STEM field USDA NIFA Grant 12438895/2018-680101-27674 aimed at PD/leadership development in the rural context.

Teacher leadership in rural middle schools

Cherie Gaines, Lincoln Memorial University

Due to unique characteristics and specialized needs, rural schools served as sites for investigation of the four factor model of teacher leadership: sharing leadership, principal selection, sharing expertise, and supra-practitioner.

2. Generation Z: Meeting the needs of learners

Paper/presentation

Inclusive excellence: University design and teaching strategies for the most diverse generation

Roger Munger, Boise State University

For Gen Zers, diversity and inclusion are the norm. What does that mean for our teaching? Leave with a self-study checklist to assess and adapt your teaching for Gen Zers.

Generation Z: Convergence in education practice begins

Michael (Mike) R. Farmer, Lander University

Generation Z—markedly different from earlier generations. Mass media, educational neuroscience and our own classroom practice affirm this. What do we need to do to better meet the learning needs of these and future learners?

3. Student assessment

Paper/presentation

What do you mean by “growth?”: From criteria and scales to stories and interpretive lenses in writing assessment

Maja Wilson, University of Maine, Farmington

It's common to talk about a student writer's growth. But too often growth is constructed as an increase in test scores. Learn about tools designed to nurture and observe the growth of the writer herself.

Grading and grace: The role of grading in the creation of a hospitable learning environment

Curtis Cunningham, John Brown University

Can rigor and hospitality exist in the same classroom? Need a professor extend hospitality as a function of grading and assessment? How do student perceptions of grading practices influence the hospitality of the professor? This presentation explores these questions.

4. Facilitating white racial self-reflection

Paper/presentation

A White racial perspective on preparing whites for culturally relevant leadership

Mack T. Hines III, Sam Houston State University

This session highlights a White racially framed look at preparing White educators for positions of educational leadership. Specifically, this presentation aims to look at how to facilitate white racial self-reflection among White preservice principals.

Revisiting Baldwin's Talk to Teachers: What will you do with what you know now?

Theresa Y. Robinson, Elmhurst College

"When did you become White?" This paper addresses the processes by which discussions of race and culture are constructed among White teacher candidates with respect to American education systems.

5. Developing teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

How do institutions of higher learning develop teachers to be leaders?

Patricia Murphree, Lincoln Memorial University

Teacher roles—instructor, colleague, role model, nurse, counselor, policy-maker, curriculum developer, team leader, committee chair, community-school liaison: How do they do it all, and how can they be taught to do it all?

The importance of middle level leadership: A review of the powerful book The 360° Leader by John Maxwell

Rachel Star, Indiana University Southeast

Carol Bartlett, Indiana University Southeast

This presentation will include a discussion of John Maxwell's book The 360° Leader as it relates to developing leaders. The myths and challenges of middle level leadership will be discussed.

Second Concurrent Session

9:40 – 10:55

6. Meeting the social and emotional needs of Gen Z learners

Panel discussion

The inter-related nature of well-being and learning: How do we meet the social and emotional learning needs of our Gen Z learners?

Betsy Denton Burrows, Brevard College

Megan Keiser, Brevard College

Kortney Conner, Western Carolina University

Brian Randall, Asheville City Schools

How do we as teacher educators support the well-being of our Gen Z pre-service teachers and prepare them for meeting the social and emotional learning needs of their future students?

7. Developing teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

Identifying and growing internal leaders: A framework for effective teacher leadership

Kimberly T. Strike, Southern Wesleyan University

Lisa Hall-Hyman, Southern Wesleyan University

This interactive session discusses foundational insights of teacher leadership, engages participants in activities to explore different scenarios where they identify leadership characteristics, and discuss ways to grow leadership.

Teachers navigating the complexity of multiple roles: Teacher, mentor and leader

Saundra L. Shillingstad, University of Nebraska at Omaha

Sheryl McGlamery, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This study included twelve veteran teachers who serve(d) in the role of CADRE Associate during the 2016-17 and 2017-18 school year. The presentation will share the perspectives and experiences of the teachers serving in multiple leadership roles in the CADRE Project.

Zen and the art of improvised disappointment: An etic perspective on teacher leadership

Jeff Hamilton, Gardner-Webb University

Conrad Martin, Cleveland Early College

How does the adaptive leadership framework empower teacher leaders to make the most impact within the strictest of confines? This model is just what the doctor might have ordered.

8. The roots of Black educator activism

Panel discussion

Questioning the resistance: Black children inheriting ahistorical activist discourse

Donyell L. Roseboro, University of North Carolina Wilmington

Karen Meadows, Guilford County Schools, North Carolina

Sabrina Ross, Georgia Southern University

In this session we analyze the roots of Black educator activism. The central question for this session: What happens when young people inherit an ahistorical discourse of resistance?

9. Technology and Gen Z students

Paper/presentation

The digital native has arrived: Using technologies to challenge and respond to millennial and Generation Z students

Alison Schmidt, College of Wooster

Megan Wereley, College of Wooster

Matthew Broda, College of Wooster

As digital natives, modern students have a nuanced digital milieu. They are diverse and connected, requiring innovative pedagogy that values depth of content and meaningful social interaction for educational purposes.

An action research study of the implementation of a Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) program in an elementary school

Lynda A. Thompson, Rhode Island College

This action research study explores the benefits and implications of adopting a Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) program in an elementary classroom. The data presented will focus specifically on issues of equity.

Student engagement: Giving students what they want; getting educators what they need

Jennifer Zakrzewski, Charleston Southern University

Jacquelynn Pleis, Charleston Southern University

We all strive for engagement with our Gen Z learners, but often miss the mark. This presentation will share research-based engagement tools to aid learning in multi-generational classrooms.

10. LGBT issues

Paper/presentation

Ensuring LGBT1IA2 children and youth feel safe at school

James Paul Thing, California State University, Los Angeles

Kate Esposito, California State University, Dominguez Hills

LGBTQIA2 students consistently report that schools are hostile and unsafe. This presentation, situated within a social justice civility framework, will provide participants with strategies schools can implement to reduce bullying.

“What I’d want you to know”: Advice for pre-service teachers on the experience of being a married LGBT teacher

Zachary Stumbo, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Lauren Moret, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

First-hand advice from currently married LGBT teachers, designed for pre-service teachers of all identities; discussing the unique impacts marriage equality has brought to the professional and personal lives of teachers.

Third Concurrent Session

11:05 – 12:05

11. Supporting first-generation and Gen-Z students

Paper/presentation

First-year seminars, libraries, and Generation Z: Shaping student success narratives

Emily Bosscher, Trinity Christian College

Cathy Mayer, Trinity Christian College

The Library and First-year Experience program directors invite attendees to discover who Generation Z students are, particularly in light of academic needs supported by the library and broader student services.

Essays of first-generation college students

Ronda J. Mitchell, University of Illinois at Springfield

Every Student Has a Story: Personal Narratives from First-Generation College Students, along with Volume II, include essays that resonate with me. Learning about student struggles increases the understanding of this population.

12. Altering our perspectives about teaching and professional development

Paper/presentation

Re-conceptualizing what “Teacher” means: Bringing a higher education framework to our schools

Sarah Straub, Stephen F. Austin State University

Participants will engage in a dynamic presentation where we reframe what it means to be a teacher through the lens of higher education’s three components: research, service, and teaching.

What is a Personal Learning Network (PLN) and how is it changing professional development

Lauren Peña, University of Central Oklahoma

Bryan Bucher, University of Central Oklahoma

Mat Cooper, University of Central Oklahoma

Chase Langley, University of Central Oklahoma

Kirk Webster, University of Central Oklahoma

In a PLN educators connect through online methods. This session focuses on the use of social media to build a network and how this changes the face of professional development

13. Claiming one’s culture

Paper/presentation

Celso Antunes (Professors and Professaurus): Reflections about teaching and diverse pedagogical practices

William Guedes Cortezia, Fitchburg State University

With significant sarcasm, Antunes identifies the “professor” who is indispensable to the university with the “professaurus” who is not. The professor is the one who stimulates, challenges, and explains knowledge.

Robin Holly, Oklahoma State University

I analyze Sherman Alexie's Thunder Boy Jr. through the cultural studies lens of scholar Stuart Hall in order to elucidate the inseparable relation among naming (language), culture, and identity creation.

14. Trauma, and other tough situations students face

Paper/presentation

The reverse domino effect: The role of educators in nurturing self-belief, determination, and post-traumatic growth in students who have experienced trauma

Pamela A. Larde, Mercer University

Navella Jean Walker, Mercer University

Oliver Lewis, Dekalb Public Schools, Georgia

This presentation demonstrates how mentoring and coaching school leaders, teachers, parents, and students can create a reverse domino effect that can dramatically change the trajectory of a student who has experienced trauma and hardship.

Active shooter preparedness: The role and responsibility of faculty in higher education

Arthur E. Hernandez, University of the Incarnate Word

Virginia Fender, University of Texas at Tyler

The FBI's analysis of active shooter episodes from 2000-2017 (June 2018) suggests that these episodes are rare, though horrific. Participants are invited to discuss the matter with the goal of developing some preliminary recommendations for consideration.

15. Engaging Gen Z learners

Panel discussion

Using the art of the HOOK to engage Gen Z learners

Daniel Zukergood, Springfield College

Shanyn Dudley, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Erica Begley, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Jacquelynne Chase, Springfield College

Panelists will discuss ways they located/created extraordinary content specific hooks that engage Gen Z students while addressing the dreaded question: "Why do we have to learn this stuff?"

Fourth Concurrent Session

12:15 – 1:20

16. Assessing student work

Panel discussion

We've come a long way in how we teach – now we need to change the way we assess

Gina Mickiewicz, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Kelly Gilhooly, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Katy Reed, Springfield College

Eileen Cyr, Springfield College

Many educators have embraced student-centered teaching practices, but little has changed with regard to assessment practices. Panelists will present examples of differentiated assessments based on student choice menus.

17. Teacher leadership opportunities

Panel discussion

Graduate student perceptions of teacher leadership opportunities in K-12 schools

Bryan S. Zugelder, East Carolina University

H. Carol Greene, East Carolina University

Louis L. Warren, East Carolina University

Mark L'Esperance, East Carolina University

This interactive session will showcase graduate student perceptions of teacher leadership opportunities and career pathways available in K-12 schools after completing a Master of Arts in Education.

18. Restorative justice

Presentation

Beyond professional development workshops: Why we need restorative justice in teacher education

Martha Brown, RJA Consulting

This presentation will explain why teacher education programs should include courses in restorative justice so they can better prepare teachers to work effectively in schools that adopt school-wide restorative practices.

Fifth Concurrent Session

1:30 – 3:05

19. Civility and citizenship: A task for public schools

Paper/presentation

Building civility in schools

J. Darrell Mohr, University of North Texas

Angela Patton, University of North Texas

Growing evidence of undesired social outcomes in schools indicate an urgent need to address barriers to civility, rather than continuing to rely on common, ineffective methods of deterring undesired behavior.

Community schools: An equity solution encouraging civility, civics and engaging citizens in our public schools

Janine Al-Aseer, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

In a time when civic engagement is at a historic low, we have begun to look at our public school system for solutions. Community Schools present an opportunity to improve public education and the civic engagement within.

Political education: Student walkouts and implications for citizenship

Ann Allen, Ohio State University

Through analysis of reactions to student walkouts, this paper examines the issue of political education. Conceptions of education for engaged citizenship, political education, and implications for educators are discussed.

Democratic literacy: Schools we need and deserve

Susan McDonough, Dominican University

Jacquelyn Benchik-Osborne, Dominican University

What does democracy have to do with schooling? What kind of thinking is going on in urban classrooms? This presentation considers what democratic literacy should look like.

20. Literacy—and literature in the classroom

Paper/presentation

Thinking beyond school walls: Shakespeare's The Tempest retold

Patricia Whitney, Eastern New Mexico University

In the Atwood style, The Tempest Retold, is the focus of a festival with a twist which ends up in a prison. Hag-Seed supports the magic of literacy through adaptation.

"Lovin' the skin I'm in": The case for using young adult literature in secondary English classrooms

Jess Smith, Baylor University

Mona Choucair, Baylor University

Promoting cultural and linguistic appreciation through the use of multicultural literature

Jayne A. Sherman, George Mason University

This discussion will focus on how multicultural literature can be used in a primary classroom during read alouds and during small guided reading groups to engage students in the topic of diversity.

Exploring and constructing an understanding of an unfamiliar culture through young adult literature

Arianna Drossopoulos, University of Tennessee

This presentation introduces YA texts featuring Muslim characters and activities that allow for student discussion about stereotypes, othering, equity, culture and additional topics that have students analyzing today's society.

21. Graduate programs in teacher leadership

Paper/presentation

Learning to lead: High impact experiences in teacher leadership graduate programs

Jennifer Putnam, Gardner-Webb University

Sydney Brown, Gardner-Webb University

Designers of a Masters degree program in Teacher Leadership identify and explain high-impact experiences to strengthen teacher leadership skills in graduate level candidates. Alignment to teacher leadership standards/competencies is included.

A graduate program's role in transforming teachers into teacher leaders

Leigh Ann McMullan, Mississippi State University

Frankie Williams, Mississippi State University

Eric Moyer, Mississippi State University

This presentation addresses current research on teacher leadership, including how teacher leaders can be recruited, developed, and retained. It explains the recent development of a graduate program in teacher leadership.

Teacher leadership: What have done and where are we going?

Dawn Behan, Mount Mercy University

One private university developed a Teacher Leadership emphasis in response to the Teacher Leadership grant in Iowa. Based on National Teacher Leadership Standards, its goal is to develop teacher leaders through graduate studies.

Developing teacher leaders: An examination of a graduate Reading Specialist program

Geraldine Mongillo, William Paterson University

Carrie E. Hong, William Paterson University

Michelle Gonzalez, William Paterson University

This presentation will focus on the preliminary findings related to the efficacy of the coursework in our graduate Reading Specialist program to create genuine experiences that nurture teacher leaders.

22. Technology in the classroom

Paper/presentation

Enhancing reading comprehension with student-centered iPad applications

Andria L. Moon, Northern State University
Cheryl M. Wold, Northern State University

This research describes collaboration between a university and an elementary school. This collaboration was part of the Language Arts Methods course involving university students assisting fifth-graders with applications on iPads.

Meet me in the middle: Infusing technology in middle math

Barbara Martin, Southern Illinois University
Penelope Straub, Willmette Public Schools, Illinois

Based on the work of Mishra and Koehler (2009) this qualitative study examined student work from one middle school math class assignment for evidence of Technology and Content Knowledge (TCK) constructs.

iHeart-to-Heart: Helping Gen-Z grow through intentional classroom conversations

Amanda Rigell, University of Tennessee
Elizabeth Knode, University of Tennessee

This presentation will offer a hands-on introduction to dialogic literacy learning activities designed for diverse, digital-native Generation Z learners.

Sixth Concurrent Session
3:15 – 4:15

23. Paying attention to racism and related issues
Panel discussion

Teaching for our culturally diverse world: Developing teacher leaders' critical practice

Elizabeth (Betsy) DeMulder, George Mason University
Stacia Stribling, George Mason University
Jenice View, George Mason University
Laura Dallman, George Mason University

Using the theoretical frameworks of reflective practice, critical pedagogy and anti-racist education, we discuss the concept, the need, and a model for ongoing critical teacher professional and leadership development.

24. Building leadership: Solid building blocks or false hope?
Paper/presentation

Developing principals to maximize the use of teacher leaders for school improvement

Ted Zigler, Ohio Dominican University
JoAnn Hohenbrink, Ohio Dominican University

Ohio Dominican University developed modules which can be added to Principal Preparation Programs to help principal candidates learn and understand the value of teacher leadership and how to utilize those teacher leaders for school improvement.

The hypocrisy of educational leadership

Lori Morris, Austin Peay State University

William Flora, East Tennessee State University

Are educational leadership programs creating the types of leaders needed to make positive system improvements occur? This presentation argues that fundamental change must occur in both training future leaders and in the structure of PK-12 education.

25. Improving doctoral programs

Paper/presentation

Re-examining doctoral education: Leadership in the context of practice for promotion of equal educational opportunity

Olajide O. Agunloye, Augusta University

Through a critical lens, this paper presents the convergence of two education doctoral programs, Ph.D and Ed.D, in the context of practice in order to promote equal educational opportunity and social justice.

Sequential core curriculum to improve dissertation skills in a doctoral program

Andrew Courtney, Lincoln Memorial University

Completing a dissertation is an intellectual challenge and often a problem for doctoral students. Doctoral faculty developed a sequential core curriculum to increase doctoral candidates' readiness for the dissertation phase.

26. Pathways to teacher leadership

Interactive session

Lattice vs. ladder: Examining pathways to teacher leadership

Lisa Hall-Hyman, Southern Wesleyan University

Kimberly T. Strike, Southern Wesleyan University

This collaborative session examines developing teacher leaders within the context of educational systems and school-university partnerships. Participants reflect on existing teacher leadership efforts and discuss stretching their capacity to lead.

27. Supporting Gen Z college students

Panel discussion

The Gen Z college experience: Aligning efforts for success

Yolanda L. Dunston, North Carolina Central University

Christina Garrett, North Carolina Central University

Patience Jones, North Carolina Central University

Ania Hairston, North Carolina Central University

Gen Z college students and the faculty who serve and support them share their perceptions of what this group of learners needs for social, emotional, academic, and professional success.

Seventh Concurrent Session

4:25 – 5:40

28. Social justice in teacher leadership programs

Panel discussion

The missing link: Social justice leadership in teacher leadership preparation programs

Kimberly R. James, Louisiana State University

Runell J. King, Louisiana State University

Jovan T. Thomas, Louisiana State University

Teacher leadership programs lack the preparedness of equity, diversity, and intersectionality issues within the K-12 school system. Incorporating social justice leadership is needed in teacher leadership programs.

29. Is modern culture seducing post-millennial students?

Panel discussion

Are we being seduced by modern culture?

Austin Vincent, Missouri State University

Elizabeth Lee, Missouri State University

Meaghan Duda, Missouri State University

Jennifer Lippert, Missouri State University

Aimee Aubuchon, Missouri State University

Kyle Rickman, Missouri State University

Undergraduate honors students from Missouri State University discuss changing ideals and attitudes in modern youth culture—including discussion of cynicism, evolving “high art” and media, and the effects of an increasingly globalized society on the education of post-millennial generations.

30. Developing and empowering teachers

Paper/presentation

Does empowering teachers impact student achievement?

Richard M. Ingersoll, University of Pennsylvania

This presentation summarizes the results of a recent study, using large-scale data, of how much decision-making power teachers have in schools and whether it makes any difference for student achievement.

Evolution of teacher leadership: One district’s story

Brian Cinnamon, Kingsport City Schools

Virginia P. Foley, East Tennessee State University

This paper and presentation will tell the story of Kingsport City Schools' development and use of teacher leaders. The evolution of this approach has been needs based and data informed.

Working together as teacher educators: Collaborations in a clinical partnership

Holly Dolan, Clark University

Jennifer Conlon, Worcester Public Schools

We will share models of collaboration situated within a university/public school partnership that bring together several constituent groups to jointly explore effective instruction practice that leads to enhanced student learning

31. Special education

Paper/presentation

Supporting secondary special education teachers: Assessment of four year outcomes

Kamal Hamdan, California State University, Dominguez Hills

This session discusses an innovative federally funded special education teacher preparation program, provides an analysis of candidates' perceptions of their preparation, and concludes with personal reflections regarding the program outcomes.

Perceptions of supportive leadership behaviors of school site administrators for secondary special education teachers

Adrian Jung, California State University, Fullerton

The purpose of this research is to identify and compare specific leadership behaviors perceived as supportive by special education teachers and school site administrators. This study will analyze the role the administrator plays in the effectiveness of programs for students with disabilities.

Developing special education teachers in rural communities

Gillian Benedetti, Plymouth State University

This presentation will discuss the challenges and opportunities of individuals living in rural communities who are interested in becoming special education teachers.

32. Student motivation

Paper/presentation

Student motivation and amotivation: Exploring teacher and student perceptions

Anna Schwan, Northern State University

Effectively addressing secondary students' amotivation starts with an understanding of their perceptions regarding motivation and their beliefs about what may be causing amotivation. Are teachers asking and listening?

A review and discussion of Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi's Flow: Professional Implications of Optimal Experience

Edward J. Caropreso, University of North Carolina Wilmington

A review of Csikszentmihalyi's 1990 book Flow: Professional Implications of Optimal Experience will address the principle elements underlying the Flow construct, followed by a brief literature review about Flow experiences in educational settings.

Engage me: I'm waiting!

Lakisha Gates Rice, North Carolina Central University

This presentation provides an array of tools and strategies that engage and motivate students. The session demonstrates how to navigate student ownership of learning and how to create a rich and purposeful learning environment.

33. Fostering positive change in schools

Paper/presentation

Fostering the innovative teacher: How schools can promote creativity and encourage divergence in classroom practices

Brian A. Stone, Northern Arizona University

Rachael Pearson, Monte Vista Elementary School, Kyrene School District

Many teachers are stifled by school programs and policies demanding conformity. However, the best teachers are creative. This presentation demonstrates how schools can identify and support innovative teachers.

R-E-S-P-E-C-T: College students' perception of respect in university and K-12 classrooms

Donna Metlicka, University of St. Francis

Are you respectful towards your students? Are they respectful towards you? Are you even speaking the same language? Examine the surprising range of meanings that college students associate with the term respect.

34. Ideas for science educators

Paper/presentation

Expanding our views of education to address sustainable development, empowerment, and social transformation

William C. Kyle, Jr., University of Missouri – St. Louis

We must transform schooling to ensure education leads to sustainable development. This presentation discusses three ideas that need to shape educational goals if we are to have an ecologically literate, thoughtful, and empathetic citizenry.

Teacher leadership on implementing STEM instructions through action research

Hui-Ju Huang, California State University, Sacramento

The Master Teaching Fellows program aims to build teacher leadership for implementing strong STEM instruction. I will present their action research on the changes in teaching practice and student learning.

35. Bilingual teachers / ELL students

Paper/presentation

Improving the content area instructional practices of bilingual teachers

Roxane Cuellar Allsup, Texas State University

This session highlights information about a professional development program which was implemented by university faculty to improve content area instructional practices of elementary bilingual teachers.

The benefits of undergraduate research in teacher education: A digital spreadsheet

Carolyn Marciniac, Roanoke College
Maria Stallions, Roanoke College

This session will demonstrate the benefits of using an assessment spreadsheet protocol to track the English and content knowledge outcomes of an ELL with unique language and cultural differences.

36. Global perspectives Paper/presentation

Higher education in Colombia: What can we learn from university reform in a flourishing country?

Ali Sakkal, Wake Forest University

Colombia's reforming university system reveals much regarding current global trends. This presentation addresses fluctuations in student and institutional debt, privatization, faculty roles, and student access as a possible new norm.

The perceptions of female leadership: Impact of gender and leader qualifications on the effectiveness of leaders

Alaa Alshakha, University of North Florida

This paper represents the hypothesized models of a study examining how gender and leader qualification influence the gendered perception of female leadership effectiveness in Saudi Arabian higher education institutions.

37. Applying The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People to teaching Panel discussion

Using the 7 Habits as future teachers

Lindsay M. Sturkie, Francis Marion University
Rebecca Alexander, Francis Marion University
Rian Avin, Francis Marion University
Beaty Garrison, Francis Marion University
Zach Middleton, Francis Marion University
Melayna Neupert, Francis Marion University
Monica Scott, Francis Marion University
Joel Taylor, Francis Marion University

The presenters will share their insights and offer suggestions for other programs and teachers on how The 7 Habits of Highly Effective People can be used as a guide for being a highly effective educator.

38. Multicultural education
Paper/presentation

Elements of cultural proficiency: Adopting a critical multicultural instructional approach

Franklin Thompson, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This session is for those who teach multicultural education or race relations courses and are looking for strategies and techniques that encourage critical thinking and lifelong learning.

“Diversity placements”: Supporting the development of socially just teachers or reinforcing negative stereotypes?

Chloe S. Bolyard, Missouri State University

A. Minor Baker, Missouri State University

A mixed-methods case study examining the impact of preservice teachers’ field placement in diverse schools on personal and professional beliefs about working with culturally and linguistically diverse students.

Conceptualizing culture

Kelly Gomez Johnson, University of Nebraska at Omaha

Anne Karabon, University of Nebraska at Omaha

Derrick Nero, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This presentation will focus on pre-service teachers’ perceptions of culture when confronting biases and deficit perspectives during early-program teacher preparation experiences and coursework around multiple social and cultural contexts.

39. A deeper perspective on today’s educational issues
Paper/presentation

A most powerful book: Merle Curti’s The Social Ideas of American Educators

Sam F. Stack Jr., West Virginia University

This paper addresses the impact of Merle Curti's The Social Ideas of American Educators and its impact on one scholar's approach to coupling intellectual history and education biography.

Teaching how fascism works in the age of Trump

Brian W. Dotts, University of Georgia

Jamie C. Atkinson, Missouri State University

With the emergence of fascist inclinations in American politics since the rise of Donald Trump, we discuss using Jason Stanley's book, How Fascism Works, in multicultural teacher education courses.

Implementing Holocaust education in elementary schools: Guiding post-millennial preservice teachers

Ilene Allgood, Florida Atlantic University

This presentation offers teaching strategies that inspire critical inquiry and teach emotionally-charged content. Resources and methodology for post-millennial preservice teachers to incorporate Holocaust education provided.

40. Teacher leadership in preservice teacher preparation programs

Paper/presentation

Preparing pre-service teachers for leadership in their chosen vocation

Teresa M. Reynolds, St. Andrews University

Teacher leadership begins in the educational preparation program. This presentation provides a model for engaging pre-service teacher candidates in leadership activities within their school during student teaching.

Setting a solid foundation for teacher leadership: Establishing integrated leadership in teacher preparation programs

Lora Lee Smith Canter, East Carolina University

Effective teacher leadership begins with preservice teachers. This session will introduce participants to a comprehensive and purposeful leadership program that focuses on developing individual leadership skills of preservice teachers.

A field experience context: Preservice teacher perceptions of leadership, cultural responsiveness of the school, and propensity to teach at the school

Delois L. Maxwell

The contextual experience of 86 pre-service teachers who completed a one-year field experience was examined. Respondents were asked about school leader behavior, cultural responsiveness of the school, and willingness to teach at the school.

41. Communicating with Gen Z students

Panel discussion

Can you hear me now?: Communicating with Gen Z students in the digital age

Geralyn E. Stephens, Wayne State University

Chavon Jameel, Wayne State University

Else Babcock, Wayne State University

Generation Z are digital natives. They expect to engage with faculty using CMC technology. This presentation provides participants with hands-on experiences using Facebook, Skype and Google Hangouts as communication tools.

42. Uncovering great teachers

Paper/presentation

21st century challenges with the perspective of one of the greatest teachers of all times

Buffie Schmidt, August University

Are the challenges educators face today new? Are current learning goals revolutionary or time tested? How do wise educators respond to bad days? Attendees will evaluate His teaching record.

A powerful book: Teach Like Your Hair's On Fire: But how do we light the flame to make teachers passionate again?

Heather Huling, Georgia Southern University

The book Teach Like Your Hair's On Fire will be used to explore dynamic teaching methods and how teachers stay equally passionate as they teach using Esquith's methods through an interactive presentation.

"Cutting down jungles" . . . "Irrigating deserts": Towards the renewal of the purpose of education in a classic, contemporary and cultural perspective

David A. Escobar Arcay, Nova Southeastern University

43. Remembering the impact teachers have on students

Paper/presentation

I still remember* . . . Using the narratives of former students to explore teacher impact

Julie Hasson, Florida Southern College

The purpose of this study is to explore teacher impact through the narratives of former students. The stories provide insight into the lasting influence of a teacher on students' lives.

A journey in three acts

Stacy S. Stetzel, Manchester University

Heather A. Schilling, Manchester University

Heidi E. Wieland, Manchester University

A Journey in Three Acts reflectively analyzed meaningful, impactful, and preferred instructional methods of first-year undergraduate students. Qualitative impressions and preferences informed a reimagining of course content and field experience.

44. The use of stories in teaching and learning

Paper/presentation

Using parables and storytelling to aid learning and retention

John Long, William Woods University

From ancient times until today, educators have used stories to assist learners in retaining important information. Revisit this ancient technique and learn how it can still be applied today.

Building up and breaking down: Family immigration story project

Rebecca Pruitt, Lewis University

A qualitative analysis of 68 Family Immigration Story projects revealed the assignment's potential for interrupting the dehumanizing educational experiences of students while breaking down biases of their White peers.

45. Stages of teacher development

Panel discussion

The role of teacher development and motivation in supporting teacher leadership

H. Carol Greene, East Carolina University

Mark L'Esperance, East Carolina University

This interactive session will highlight how a graduate program considered stages of teacher development and motivation to enhance its program quality and support future teacher leaders.

46. Teachers' role in free market capitalism

Paper/presentation

Teachers' role in free markets: How teachers abet the foundations of free market capitalism

Samuel B. Hardy, III, University of Phoenix

Thomas E. Deering, University of Phoenix

This presentation emphasizes the role of public school teachers in a free market economy, given that two of the four factors of production are human factors: labor and entrepreneurial ability. A market driven, free enterprise system needs effective human capital, enhanced through an educated populace.

47. Racism in education

Panel discussion

Race, racism, and racists in education: Practices for change

Jessica Heybach, Aurora University

Mary Beth Hines, Indiana University

Wafa Mohomad, Aurora University

Kimberly R. James, East Baton Rouge School Parish

Runell J. King, New Beginnings Schools Foundation

Jovan T. Thomas, Independent Scholar

This session will explore the recent Academy for Educational Studies book, Making Sense of Race in Education: Practices for Change in Difficult Times. Authors will share chapters that bridge the theory-practice divide to enact more just and human educational environments.

Eleventh Concurrent Session

2:45 – 4:20

48. Most powerful books: Melville, Wolf, and O'Leary

Paper/presentation

Captain Ahab as a unique model for the relentless educator

Daniel Barth, University of Arkansas

Often damned as a fanatic, Melville's Captain Ahab serves as a cogent model of the relentless educator who refused to give up on challenging special needs and oppositional students.

Journey toward oneself

Robert C. Kleinsasser, Arizona State University (Tempe)

Christa Wolf's The Quest for Christa T—a powerful book to consider how Gen Z, Gen I, and post millennials seek coming to oneself and become an educated person.

A call to Action: On Fire by John O'Leary

Jacquelynn Pleis, Charleston Southern University

Precious is a book that speaks on a personal and professional level, as as On Fire by John O'Leary. From disaster to opportunity, our personal perspective makes all the difference.

49. Using digital technologies: Digging deeper

Paper/presentation

Digital storytelling and multiple literacies

Taralynn Hartsell, Valdosta State University

Creators can express themselves through digital storytelling. The presentation examines the design, development, and application of digital storytelling for teaching, learning of skills, and enhancing creative expression.

Scholarly alternatives to academic writing

Christopher Strople, University of Maine at Farmington

This presentation explores the possibility of different educational ends by providing evidence of scholarly alternatives to academic writing. Gen Z students can leverage the abundance of media and technology available to them.

Not either/or but both: The double-edged potential of print literacy

Eric S. Mohr, Utah State University

Kathleen A. J. Mohr, Utah State University

It is time for educators to re-envision what constitutes an “educated person” in the 21st century by negotiating an effective interrelationship between print and digital literacies.

Time for a paradigm change: Paivio’s dual coding theory as a frame of reference for learning (and teaching) in the 21st century

Edward J. Caropreso, University of North Carolina Wilmington

A review of the literature on the development of Paivio’s dual-coding theory will be presented and discussed. In addition, educational applications of dual-coding theory in contemporary personal and professional experiences will be discussed.

50. Teacher burnout, teacher shortages, and the struggle to attract and retain teachers

Paper/presentation

Job satisfaction and burnout as conditions for teacher retention and leadership

Christopher Benedetti, Plymouth State University

This presentation will share study findings that indicate significant predictive relationships between job satisfaction and burnout in teachers to understand conditions for teacher retention and leadership in schools.

Critical shortage areas in education: What does that really mean?

Carol Bartlett, Indiana University Southeast

This presentation includes information on critical shortage areas in education as well as initiatives Indiana University Southeast, School of Education has embarked upon to address this need within Indiana and surrounding areas.

More than money: A structured scholarship program to develop future mathematics teacher leaders

Angie Hodge, University of Northern Arizona

Paula Jakopovic, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This presentation will focus on how one university's NOYCE scholarship program develops promising future mathematics teachers through structured leadership training, teaching assistantships, and outreach planning and implementation.

Development and education: Partnering on teacher retention through philanthropy

Cindy Van Buren, University of South Carolina

Erin T. Eigenbrot, University of South Carolina

Hear the story of collaborative efforts between an Assistant Dean and the Director of Development in privately funding an innovative program to assist with induction and retention of new teachers.

51. Problems with charter schools / Betsy DeVos

Paper/presentation

The impact of closed charter schools on students, parents, and communities

Rosa D. Borgen, Barry University

The closing of charter schools can be a traumatic event for students, parents, and entire communities. What are the academic, emotional, and psychological effects of such closings? Be part of this timely and important topic.

Modern-day school segregation and charter schools: An analysis of research

Carrie Buckner, University of Tennessee

This research review attempts to explore the connection between segregation in the American public school system and charter schools, with specific attention to the effects on elementary education and children.

School choice and political discourse: An analysis of the Betsy DeVos nomination hearing

David Appleton, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Using the Betsy DeVos nomination hearing, this study investigates the way(s) in which Democratic and Republican senators utilize discourse and language about school to form arguments about public education.

52. EdTPA and the authority of accreditation

Paper/presentation

Mentor teachers' perceptions of student teachers' performance pre- and post-edTPA becoming a requirement for teacher licensure

Mitra Fallahi, Cardinal Stritch University

Clavon Byrd, Cardinal Stritch University

Perceptions of mentor teachers about student teachers' performance were gathered before and after the edTPA became consequential. The strongest participant response was that student teachers experienced severe stress while preparing edTPA portfolios.

Does teacher assessment preparation affect teacher practice?

Stephen J. Hernandez, Hofstra University

This presentation will discuss a study involving teacher education graduates who were prepared for the profession in a manner intended to help them pass the edTPA assessment portfolio required for teacher certification.

The fabricated authority of accreditation and its effects on academic freedom

Brett J. Holt, University of Vermont

This presentation will identify the historical context of public institutions' association with educational accrediting bodies and a philosophical discourse that illustrates accreditation's invasive behavior on the foundation of academic freedom.

Twelfth Concurrent Session

4:30 – 5:45

53. Eroding white supremacy

Panel discussion

Toward a civil society: Eroding the blocks upon which white supremacy stands and promoting an inclusive and humanistic white identity

Rose Borunda, California State University Sacramento

Hyun Gyung Joo, California State University Sacramento

Carly Scarton, California State University Sacramento

Jessica Moreno, California State University Sacramento

Michele Mahr, California State University Sacramento

Sangmin Park, California State University Sacramento

The Master Narrative has prompted perceptive inequities in our classrooms and our society. Educators, left to grapple with the subsequent discord, are offered concrete alternative strategies and evidence of positive outcomes.

54. Navigating the bumpy road to effect change

Paper/presentation

We stand for equity, access and success: Reality or myth? Dilemmas of actualizing change in a college of education

Marjorie Madden, Rowan University

Valarie G. Lee, Rowan University

This presentation documents the tensions and challenges that administration and faculty negotiate when interpreting and enacting a new vision for their college around social justice and equity.

Course alignment through a collaborative process

Susan Boxler, William Penn University

Cathy Williamson, William Penn University

Dana Oswald, William Penn University

Education professors share their approach to aligning courses that are presented in different modes of delivery. Professor collaboration and efficiency has occurred with shared strategies and resources.

Here today, and NOT “gone tomorrow”: How project management gives education sustainability

Forrest Nettles, University of South Carolina

Cindy Van Buren, University of South Carolina

All too often in the field of education, good ideas get funded and/or implemented, but the outcomes just don't happen. Introducing project management and education—two fields partnering with purpose.

55. Alternative approaches to clinical experiences for teacher education students

Paper/presentation

Christ the Servant Teaching Corps: Transformative clinical experiences for teacher candidates and K-5 students

Betty M. Marko, Walsh University

Jeannie DeFazio, Walsh University

Walsh University and Our Lady of Peace School have developed a collaborative partnership designed to provide tiered co-teaching with a two-fold purpose: to provide a residency experience for our students and a differentiated instructional delivery model for K-5 students.

Cutting edge or cutting ego?: Training teachers in the virtual learning environment

Anni Reinking, Southern Illinois University

This qualitative study examined how elementary education candidates used a cutting edge technology called the virtual learning environment (VLE) to receive real-time feedback and mentoring without adversely affecting (cutting) their egos.

Reading with the community: Reimagining pre-service literacy experiences in third space

Kari Dahle-Huff, Montana State University

Donna Bulatowicz, Montana State University

This paper presents research concerning pre-service teachers leading literacy activities in a community-based summer slide program. The literacy activities were with children in Section 8 housing while being mentored by faculty.

56. Trump, and the problems he brings

Paper/presentation

Trump, truth, and tweeting: The epistemological impact of new media

Eric C. Sheffield, Western Illinois University

This presentation utilizes Neil Postman's analysis of media (media is the metaphor) to examine the epistemological impact of twitter.

Jessica Heybach, Aurora University

Witness the daily barrage of discourses, a form of public pedagogy, that deem others as something to be feared, imprisoned, assaulted, violated, and disgusted with. This paper investigates the gendered public discourses of hate in the Trump era.

57. Taking care to understand ourselves and our biases

Deconstructing generous reading

Lucy K. Spence, University of South Carolina

In this paper, the affordances and constraints of generous reading are traced through its development, and an empirical study, which resulted in a discourse analysis revealing raciolinguistic ideology.

Using a psychiatrist's path from concentration camp to existentialism for understanding and addressing experiences of teachers and students of today

Paulette Harris, Augusta University

Cindy Bentle, Augusta University

Tevin Middleton, Augusta University

Millennials/post-millennials are entering school systems in increasing numbers and will replace previous generational identities. Psychiatrist Viktor Frankl's experiences in concentration camps will be explored to increase self-awareness of educators.

Wednesday, March 6th

8:00

Donuts and coffee

Thirteenth Concurrent Session

8:15 – 9:30

58. Coming to understand Gen Z

Paper/presentation

Generation Z: The more things change, the more they stay the same

Anna F. Lyon, Wright State University

Jimmie Sue Gruber, Wright State University

While Generation Z teacher candidates live in a technological world, they learned to read in traditional ways. This presentation explores how Generation Z teachers approach the teaching of literacy.

Can you label a generation that has shunned labels?

Kimberly Murie, John Brown University

Gen Z is a label used to help understand a generation. Part of being Gen Z is shunning labels, so can you use a label to define a group that doesn't believe in labels?

The importance of engaging millennials in the university classroom and Gen Zs in the K-12 classroom: Strategies of communication and engagement at both levels

Kathleen Fabrikant, Georgia Southern University

Cindy S. York, Northern Illinois University

Angie Hodge, Northern Arizona University

This will be an interactive dialogue between the attendees and the presenters throughout the presentation to gather other ideas and methods pertinent to the presentation topic.

59. Social-emotional learning: Teaching practices and relationship building

Paper/presentation

Behavioral and social emotional supports to increase student success in a diverse school: Guidelines for successful implementation of school-wide support

Kelli Dougan, Fayetteville Public Schools (AR)

Lesley Merritt, Fayetteville Public Schools

Kristina Hudson, Fayetteville Public Schools

This presentation describes the lessons learned from implementing support for students struggling in the area of behavior and social emotional development in a diverse 7th and 8th grade school.

Micro-dosing social-emotional learning: How do we prepare teacher leaders to address students' feelings?

Todd Finley, East Carolina University

Preservice and in-service teacher leaders might resist social-emotional learning, but not if you insert short SEL exercises into every activity. Learn inspiring activities to change minds and hearts.

The roadmap to high quality teacher-student relationships

Ashley E. Poklar, Cleveland State University

Research indicates relationships matter in classrooms, but is genuine relationship building teachable? This presentation highlights specific traits teachers adept at relating with students share and explores implications for teacher training.

60. Critiquing the global educational reform movement

Panel discussion

Challenging the foundations of education

Alan Canestrari, Roger Williams University

Bruce Marlowe, University of South Carolina Beaufort

Annie Winfield, Roger Williams University

This session offers a model of critique in order to question the power and authority of those who have set the trajectory of the current global educational reform movement.

61. Understanding people and changing schools:

Some things to think about

Paper/presentation

Examining generational theory through the lens of self-determination theory, and the lens of Maslow's hierarchy of needs

Angela Ford, George Washington University

Examining generational theory through a lens of motivational theory to identify changes over time may benefit those trying to create optimal motivational atmospheres to increase learning.

The distinction between restructuring and reculturing and its missing conversation party: Incorporating the concerns of Gen Z learners in educational change efforts

David A. Escobar Arcay, Nova Southeastern University

The educational change literature has documented restructuring and reculturing efforts. However, students are often the missing party. This paper suggests ways to incorporate students' experiences and concerns in these efforts.

Fourteenth Concurrent Session

9:40 – 10:55

62. Helping students grapple with the hard truths of America's educational history

Paper/presentation

"What are those buildings?": (Re)considering our role as teacher educators in light of a sight-seeing trip and archival study

Christopher Strople, University of Maine, Farmington

How do teacher educators and their students grapple with the hard truths about education's history? What if those truths challenge the institution's pursuit of accreditation? Two teacher educators share the story of their research and teaching.

The facts and lessons of history and its ethics: Re-visiting the educational experiences of underrepresented and marginalized students in the U.S. public school system and envisioning the nature and task of education

David A. Escobar Arcay, Nova Southeastern University

One of the tasks of education comprehends the justice dimension. Justice demands equality. This session re-visits the de-culturalization of historically marginalized, underrepresented, and disenfranchised groups in U.S. schools as an exercise to envision the nature and task of education.

63. The skills of practices of teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

Teacher leadership: If you want to go far, go together

Barb Ramos, Simpson College

Explore teacher leadership definitions, models, and practices as well as the skills needed to participate in a teacher leadership system. Gain access to web-based materials for teacher leadership skill development.

Teacher leadership

Jaime Coyne, Sam Houston State University

Jalene Potter, Sam Houston State University

Tori Hollas, Sam Houston State University

Mae Lane, Sam Houston State University

In this presentation, we share the results of an ongoing study with graduate students and their experience in regards to leadership opportunities.

Teacher leadership preparation

Kelly Lenarz, Trinity Christian College

This presentation will provide research and data on teacher leadership focused on both in-service and preservice teachers, and it will provide a framework of leadership opportunities for teachers in K-12 schools.

64. Special education in the age of Gen Z

Paper/presentation

Learning from one who knows: Temple Grandin's personal insights into visible thinking

Laura Rychly, Augusta University

In this presentation, the book Thinking in Pictures: My Life With Autism is presented as a tool for teachers to better understand what it means to engage in "visible thinking."

Include me: Creating sensory-friendly extracurricular activities for students on the autistic spectrum

Toni Mild, Slippery Rock University

Vaughn Bicehouse, Slippery Rock University

This presentation will communicate how one organization created sensory-friendly plays for students on the spectrum. A step-by-step outline will be shared with participants so they can replicate this process and foster inclusion in schools and in the community.

Preparing general educators and teacher leaders to work with special education students:
What is the impact, if any, of the different generations on teaching practices?

Barbara Govendo, Lesley University

Gail S. Cahill, Lesley University

Results of a national survey regarding general educators who teach students with IEPs will be presented. Suggestions for teacher preparation and teacher leadership will be reviewed from a generational perspective.

Fifteenth Concurrent Session

11:05 – 12:20

65. The self-expectations and self-efficacy of teachers and teacher candidates

Paper/presentation

Expectations of entry level teacher by building administrators versus teachers' self-expectations

Ann H. Burns, Eastern Kentucky University

Evaluation and communication in a multigenerational school setting. Differences in expectations and perceptions of professionalism and teacher expectations.

Narrative research in secondary teacher education: Examining the self-efficacy of content area teacher candidates to inform teacher educators

Tiffany Karalis Noel, University of Virginia

This study used narrative inquiry to examine the factors attributed to the self-efficacy of ten teacher candidates as they moved through their 16-week student teaching experiences.

General self-efficacy and teacher sense of efficacy of Generation Z teacher candidates: A sequential explanatory mixed methods study

Rochelle Cortino, Texas A&M University Corpus Christi

This mixed methods study determines and describes the general self-efficacy and teacher sense of efficacy of Generation Z teacher candidates and how they view their role in education as first-time teachers representing the most unique and diverse generation to date.

66. Continuing segregation / Continuing academic achievement gaps

Paper/presentation

Re-segregated schools and school (Dis)identification

Barbara A. Saurer, University of Alabama

This paper presents preliminary results of a quantitative analysis of student (dis)identification in three high schools in a metropolitan school district in the South that has re-segregated.

Causes of the academic achievement gap in African American students in central Arkansas

Kanesha'shay Adams, University of Alabama

What are the factors which contribute to the academic achievement gap in African American students? This research project examines several factors which have impacted the success of African American students.

67. Sidebar room

Paper/presentation

11:05 – 11:40

The impact of culture on learning styles of Hispanic, Gen Z university students

Angela Guzman Palacios, University of the Incarnate Word

The literature on Gen Z, Hispanic university students is sparse. This mixed methodology research intends to explore the impact that culture may have on their learning preferences.

11:45 – 12:20

Needs assessment for rhyming instruction in early childhood

Ayan Mitra, University of South Carolina

A needs assessment of elementary school and early childhood classrooms in relation to rhyming instruction and what teachers and parents think when it comes to children acquiring language skills.

Greetings and Announcements

First Concurrent Session

8:30 – 9:30

1. Teacher leadership in rural schools

Paper/presentation

Rural school teachers' leadership

Maria de Lourdes Vilorio, Texas A&M International University

Marcela Uribe, Texas A&M International University

Weam Al-Tameemi, Texas State University

Jane Elizabeth Casey, University of Texas of the Permian Basin

This presentation highlights the Professional Development for Secondary School Teachers and Educational Professionals (PD-STEP) into the STEM field USDA NIFA Grant 12438895/2018-680101-27674 aimed at PD/leadership development in the rural context.

Teacher leadership in rural middle schools

Cherie Gaines, Lincoln Memorial University

Due to unique characteristics and specialized needs, rural schools served as sites for investigation of the four factor model of teacher leadership: sharing leadership, principal selection, sharing expertise, and supra-practitioner.

2. Generation Z: Meeting the needs of learners

Paper/presentation

Roger Munger, Boise State University

For Gen Zers, diversity and inclusion are the norm. What does that mean for our teaching? Leave with a self-study checklist to assess and adapt your teaching for Gen Zers.

Michael (Mike) R. Farmer, Lander University

Generation Z—markedly different from earlier generations. Mass media, educational neuroscience and our own classroom practice affirm this. What do we need to do to better meet the learning needs of these and future learners?

3. Student assessment

Paper/presentation

What do you mean by “growth?”: From criteria and scales to stories and interpretive lenses in writing assessment

Maja Wilson, University of Maine, Farmington

It's common to talk about a student writer's growth. But too often growth is constructed as an increase in test scores. Learn about tools designed to nurture and observe the growth of the writer herself.

Grading and grace: The role of grading in the creation of a hospitable learning environment

Curtis Cunningham, John Brown University

Can rigor and hospitality exist in the same classroom? Need a professor extend hospitality as a function of grading and assessment? How do student perceptions of grading practices influence the hospitality of the professor? This presentation explores these questions.

4. Facilitating white racial self-reflection

Paper/presentation

A White racial perspective on preparing whites for culturally relevant leadership

Mack T. Hines III, Sam Houston State University

This session highlights a White racially framed look at preparing White educators for positions of educational leadership. Specifically, this presentation aims to look at how to facilitate white racial self-reflection among White preservice principals.

Revisiting Baldwin's Talk to Teachers: What will you do with what you know now?

Theresa Y. Robinson, Elmhurst College

"When did you become White?" This paper addresses the processes by which discussions of race and culture are constructed among White teacher candidates with respect to American education systems.

5. Developing teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

How do institutions of higher learning develop teachers to be leaders?

Patricia Murphree, Lincoln Memorial University

Teacher roles—instructor, colleague, role model, nurse, counselor, policy-maker, curriculum developer, team leader, committee chair, community-school liaison: How do they do it all, and how can they be taught to do it all?

The importance of middle level leadership: A review of the powerful book The 360° Leader by John Maxwell

Carol Bartlett, Indiana University Southeast

This presentation will include a discussion of John Maxwell's book The 360° Leader as it relates to developing leaders. The myths and challenges of middle level leadership will be discussed.

Second Concurrent Session

9:40 – 10:55

6. Meeting the social and emotional needs of Gen Z learners

Panel discussion

The inter-related nature of well-being and learning: How do we meet the social and emotional learning needs of our Gen Z learners?

Betsy Denton Burrows, Brevard College

Megan Keiser, Brevard College

Brian Randall, Asheville City Schools

How do we as teacher educators support the well-being of our Gen Z pre-service teachers and prepare them for meeting the social and emotional learning needs of their future students?

7. Developing teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

Identifying and growing internal leaders: A framework for effective teacher leadership

Kimberly T. Strike, Southern Wesleyan University

Lisa Hall-Hyman, Southern Wesleyan University

This interactive session discusses foundational insights of teacher leadership, engages participants in activities to explore different scenarios where they identify leadership characteristics, and discuss ways to grow leadership.

Teachers navigating the complexity of multiple roles: Teacher, mentor and leader

Sheryl McGlamery, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This study included twelve veteran teachers who serve(d) in the role of CADRE Associate during the 2016-17 and 2017-18 school year. The presentation will share the perspectives and experiences of the teachers serving in multiple leadership roles in the CADRE Project.

Zen and the art of improvised disappointment: An etic perspective on teacher leadership

Conrad Martin, Cleveland Early College

How does the adaptive leadership framework empower teacher leaders to make the most impact within the strictest of confines? This model is just what the doctor might have ordered.

8. The roots of Black educator activism

Panel discussion

Questioning the resistance: Black children inheriting ahistorical activist discourse

Donyell L. Roseboro, University of North Carolina Wilmington

Sabrina Ross, Georgia Southern University

In this session we analyze the roots of Black educator activism. The central question for this session: What happens when young people inherit an ahistorical discourse of resistance?

9. Technology and Gen Z students

Paper/presentation

The digital native has arrived: Using technologies to challenge and respond to millennial and Generation Z students

Alison Schmidt, College of Wooster

Megan Wereley, College of Wooster

Matthew Broda, College of Wooster

As digital natives, modern students have a nuanced digital milieu. They are diverse and connected, requiring innovative pedagogy that values depth of content and meaningful social interaction for educational purposes.

An action research study of the implementation of a Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) program in an elementary school

Lynda A. Thompson, Rhode Island College

This action research study explores the benefits and implications of adopting a Bring Your Own Device (BYOD) program in an elementary classroom. The data presented will focus specifically on issues of equity.

Student engagement: Giving students what they want; getting educators what they need

Jennifer Zakrzewski, Charleston Southern University

Jacquelynn Pleis, Charleston Southern University

We all strive for engagement with our Gen Z learners, but often miss the mark. This presentation will share research-based engagement tools to aid learning in multi-generational classrooms.

10. LGBT issues

Paper/presentation

Ensuring LGBT1IA2 children and youth feel safe at school

James Paul Thing, California State University, Los Angeles

Kate Esposito, California State University, Dominguez Hills

LGBTQIA2 students consistently report that schools are hostile and unsafe. This presentation, situated within a social justice civility framework, will provide participants with strategies schools can implement to reduce bullying.

“What I’d want you to know”: Advice for pre-service teachers on the experience of being a married LGBT teacher

Zachary Stumbo, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

Lauren Moret, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

First-hand advice from currently married LGBT teachers, designed for pre-service teachers of all identities; discussing the unique impacts marriage equality has brought to the professional and personal lives of teachers.

Third Concurrent Session

11:05 – 12:05

11. Supporting first-generation and Gen-Z students

Paper/presentation

Emily Bosscher, Trinity Christian College

Cathy Mayer, Trinity Christian College

The Library and First-year Experience program directors invite attendees to discover who Generation Z students are, particularly in light of academic needs supported by the library and broader student services.

Essays of first-generation college students

Ronda J. Mitchell, University of Illinois at Springfield

Every Student Has a Story: Personal Narratives from First-Generation College Students, along with Volume II, include essays that resonate with me. Learning about student struggles increases the understanding of this population.

12. Altering our perspectives about teaching and professional development

Paper/presentation

Re-conceptualizing what “Teacher” means: Bringing a higher education framework to our schools

Sarah Straub, Stephen F. Austin State University

Participants will engage in a dynamic presentation where we reframe what it means to be a teacher through the lens of higher education’s three components: research, service, and teaching.

What is a Personal Learning Network (PLN) and how is it changing professional development

Lauren Peña, University of Central Oklahoma

Mat Cooper, University of Central Oklahoma

Chase Langley, University of Central Oklahoma

Kirk Webster, University of Central Oklahoma

In a PLN educators connect through online methods. This session focuses on the use of social media to build a network and how this changes the face of professional development

13. Claiming one’s culture

Paper/presentation

William Guedes Cortezia, Fitchburg State University

With significant sarcasm, Antunes identifies the “professor” who is indispensable to the university with the “professaurus” who is not. The professor is the one who stimulates, challenges, and explains knowledge.

Robin Holly, Oklahoma State University

14. Trauma, and other tough situations students face

Paper/presentation

The reverse domino effect: The role of educators in nurturing self-belief, determination, and post-traumatic growth in students who have experienced trauma

Pamela A. Larde, Mercer University

Oliver Lewis, Dekalb Public Schools, Georgia

This presentation demonstrates how mentoring and coaching school leaders, teachers, parents, and students can create a reverse domino effect that can dramatically change the trajectory of a student who has experienced trauma and hardship.

Active shooter preparedness: The role and responsibility of faculty in higher education

Virginia Fender, University of Texas at Tyler

15. Engaging Gen Z learners

Panel discussion

Using the art of the HOOK to engage Gen Z learners

Daniel Zukergood, Springfield College

Shanyn Dudley, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Jacquelynne Chase, Springfield College

Panelists will discuss ways they located/created extraordinary content specific hooks that engage Gen Z students while addressing the dreaded question: "Why do we have to learn this stuff?"

Fourth Concurrent Session

12:15 – 1:20

16. Assessing student work

Panel discussion

We've come a long way in how we teach – now we need to change the way we assess

Gina Mickiewicz, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Kelly Gilhooly, Springfield Public Schools (MA)

Katy Reed, Springfield College

Eileen Cyr, Springfield College

Many educators have embraced student-centered teaching practices, but little has changed with regard to assessment practices. Panelists will present examples of differentiated assessments based on student choice menus.

17. Teacher leadership opportunities

Panel discussion

Graduate student perceptions of teacher leadership opportunities in K-12 schools

Bryan S. Zugelder, East Carolina University

H. Carol Greene, East Carolina University

Mark L'Esperance, East Carolina University

This interactive session will showcase graduate student perceptions of teacher leadership opportunities and career pathways available in K-12 schools after completing a Master of Arts in Education.

18. Restorative justice

Presentation

Beyond professional development workshops: Why we need restorative justice in teacher education

Martha Brown, RJA Consulting

This presentation will explain why teacher education programs should include courses in restorative justice so they can better prepare teachers to work effectively in schools that adopt school-wide restorative practices.

Fifth Concurrent Session

1:30 – 3:05

19. Civility and citizenship: A task for public schools

Paper/presentation

Building civility in schools

J. Darrell Mohr, University of North Texas

Angela Patton, University of North Texas

Growing evidence of undesired social outcomes in schools indicate an urgent need to address barriers to civility, rather than continuing to rely on common, ineffective methods of deterring undesired behavior.

Community schools: An equity solution encouraging civility, civics and engaging citizens in our public schools

Janine Al-Aseer, University of Tennessee, Knoxville

In a time when civic engagement is at a historic low, we have begun to look at our public school system for solutions. Community Schools present an opportunity to improve public education and the civic engagement within.

Political education: Student walkouts and implications for citizenship

Ann Allen, Ohio State University

Through analysis of reactions to student walkouts, this paper examines the issue of political education. Conceptions of education for engaged citizenship, political education, and implications for educators are discussed.

Democratic literacy: Schools we need and deserve

Susan McDonough, Dominican University

Jacquelyn Benchik-Osborne, Dominican University

What does democracy have to do with schooling? What kind of thinking is going on in urban classrooms? This presentation considers what democratic literacy should look like.

20. Literacy—and literature in the classroom

Paper/presentation

Thinking beyond school walls: Shakespeare's The Tempest retold

Patricia Whitney, Eastern New Mexico University

In the Atwood style, The Tempest Retold, is the focus of a festival with a twist which ends up in a prison. Hag-Seed supports the magic of literacy through adaptation.

"Lovin' the skin I'm in": The case for using young adult literature in secondary English classrooms

Jess Smith, Baylor University

Mona Choucair, Baylor University

Promoting cultural and linguistic appreciation through the use of multicultural literature

Jayne A. Sherman, George Mason University

This discussion will focus on how multicultural literature can be used in a primary classroom during read alouds and during small guided reading groups to engage students in the topic of diversity.

Exploring and constructing an understanding of an unfamiliar culture through young adult literature

Arianna Drossopoulos, University of Tennessee

This presentation introduces YA texts featuring Muslim characters and activities that allow for student discussion about stereotypes, othering, equity, culture and additional topics that have students analyzing today's society.

21. Graduate programs in teacher leadership

Paper/presentation

Learning to lead: High impact experiences in teacher leadership graduate programs

Jennifer Putnam, Gardner-Webb University

Sydney Brown, Gardner-Webb University

Designers of a Masters degree program in Teacher Leadership identify and explain high-impact experiences to strengthen teacher leadership skills in graduate level candidates. Alignment to teacher leadership standards/competencies is included.

A graduate program's role in transforming teachers into teacher leaders

Leigh Ann McMullan, Mississippi State University

Eric Moyer, Mississippi State University

This presentation addresses current research on teacher leadership, including how teacher leaders can be recruited, developed, and retained. It explains the recent development of a graduate program in teacher leadership.

Teacher leadership: What have done and where are we going?

Dawn Behan, Mount Mercy University

One private university developed a Teacher Leadership emphasis in response to the Teacher Leadership grant in Iowa. Based on National Teacher Leadership Standards, its goal is to develop teacher leaders through graduate studies.

Developing teacher leaders: An examination of a graduate Reading Specialist program

Geraldine Mongillo, William Paterson University

Michelle Gonzalez, William Paterson University

This presentation will focus on the preliminary findings related to the efficacy of the coursework in our graduate Reading Specialist program to create genuine experiences that nurture teacher leaders.

22. Technology in the classroom

Paper/presentation

Enhancing reading comprehension with student-centered iPad applications

Cheryl M. Wold, Northern State University

This research describes collaboration between a university and an elementary school. This collaboration was part of the Language Arts Methods course involving university students assisting fifth-graders with applications on iPads.

Meet me in the middle: Infusing technology in middle math

Penelope Straub, Willmette Public Schools, Illinois

Based on the work of Mishra and Koehler (2009) this qualitative study examined student work from one middle school math class assignment for evidence of Technology and Content Knowledge (TCK) constructs.

iHeart-to-Heart: Helping Gen-Z grow through intentional classroom conversations

Amanda Rigell, University of Tennessee
Elizabeth Knode, University of Tennessee

This presentation will offer a hands-on introduction to dialogic literacy learning activities designed for diverse, digital-native Generation Z learners.

Sixth Concurrent Session
3:15 – 4:15

23. Paying attention to racism and related issues
Panel discussion

Teaching for our culturally diverse world: Developing teacher leaders' critical practice

Elizabeth (Betsy) DeMulder, George Mason University
Stacia Stribling, George Mason University
Jenice View, George Mason University
Laura Dallman, George Mason University

Using the theoretical frameworks of reflective practice, critical pedagogy and anti-racist education, we discuss the concept, the need, and a model for ongoing critical teacher professional and leadership development.

24. Building leadership: Solid building blocks or false hope?
Paper/presentation

Developing principals to maximize the use of teacher leaders for school improvement

Ted Zigler, Ohio Dominican University
JoAnn Hohenbrink, Ohio Dominican University

Ohio Dominican University developed modules which can be added to Principal Preparation Programs to help principal candidates learn and understand the value of teacher leadership and how to utilize those teacher leaders for school improvement.

The hypocrisy of educational leadership

William Flora, East Tennessee State University

Are educational leadership programs creating the types of leaders needed to make positive system improvements occur? This presentation argues that fundamental change must occur in both training future leaders and in the structure of PK-12 education.

25. Improving doctoral programs

Paper/presentation

Re-examining doctoral education: Leadership in the context of practice for promotion of equal educational opportunity

Olajide O. Agunloye, Augusta University

Through a critical lens, this paper presents the convergence of two education doctoral programs, Ph.D and Ed.D, in the context of practice in order to promote equal educational opportunity and social justice.

Sequential core curriculum to improve dissertation skills in a doctoral program

Andrew Courtney, Lincoln Memorial University

Completing a dissertation is an intellectual challenge and often a problem for doctoral students. Doctoral faculty developed a sequential core curriculum to increase doctoral candidates' readiness for the dissertation phase.

26. Pathways to teacher leadership

Interactive session

Lattice vs. ladder: Examining pathways to teacher leadership

Lisa Hall-Hyman, Southern Wesleyan University

Kimberly T. Strike, Southern Wesleyan University

This collaborative session examines developing teacher leaders within the context of educational systems and school-university partnerships. Participants reflect on existing teacher leadership efforts and discuss stretching their capacity to lead.

27. Supporting Gen Z college students

Panel discussion

The Gen Z college experience: Aligning efforts for success

Yolanda L. Dunston, North Carolina Central University

Ania Hairston, North Carolina Central University

Gen Z college students and the faculty who serve and support them share their perceptions of what this group of learners needs for social, emotional, academic, and professional success.

Seventh Concurrent Session

4:25 – 5:40

28. Social justice in teacher leadership programs

Panel discussion

Kimberly R. James, Louisiana State University

Jovan T. Thomas, Louisiana State University

Teacher leadership programs lack the preparedness of equity, diversity, and intersectionality issues within the K-12 school system. Incorporating social justice leadership is needed in teacher leadership programs.

29. Is modern culture seducing post-millennial students?

Panel discussion

Are we being seduced by modern culture?

Austin Vincent, Missouri State University

Elizabeth Lee, Missouri State University

Meaghan Duda, Missouri State University

Jennifer Lippert, Missouri State University

Aimee Aubuchon, Missouri State University

Kyle Rickman, Missouri State University

Undergraduate honors students from Missouri State University discuss changing ideals and attitudes in modern youth culture—including discussion of cynicism, evolving “high art” and media, and the effects of an increasingly globalized society on the education of post-millennial generations.

30. Developing and empowering teachers

Paper/presentation

Does empowering teachers impact student achievement?

Richard M. Ingersoll, University of Pennsylvania

This presentation summarizes the results of a recent study, using large-scale data, of how much decision-making power teachers have in schools and whether it makes any difference for student achievement.

Evolution of teacher leadership: One district’s story

Virginia P. Foley, East Tennessee State University

This paper and presentation will tell the story of Kingsport City Schools' development and use of teacher leaders. The evolution of this approach has been needs based and data informed.

Working together as teacher educators: Collaborations in a clinical partnership

Jennifer Conlon, Worcester Public Schools

We will share models of collaboration situated within a university/public school partnership that bring together several constituent groups to jointly explore effective instruction practice that leads to enhanced student learning

31. Special education

Paper/presentation

Supporting secondary special education teachers: Assessment of four year outcomes

Kate Esposito, California State University, Dominguez Hills

Kamal Hamdan, California State University, Dominguez Hills

This session discusses an innovative federally funded special education teacher preparation program, provides an analysis of candidates' perceptions of their preparation, and concludes with personal reflections regarding the program outcomes.

Perceptions of supportive leadership behaviors of school site administrators for secondary special education teachers

Adrian Jung, California State University, Fullerton

The purpose of this research is to identify and compare specific leadership behaviors perceived as supportive by special education teachers and school site administrators. This study will analyze the role the administrator plays in the effectiveness of programs for students with disabilities.

Developing special education teachers in rural communities

Gillian Benedetti, Plymouth State University

This presentation will discuss the challenges and opportunities of individuals living in rural communities who are interested in becoming special education teachers.

32. Student motivation

Paper/presentation

Anna Schwan, Northern State University

Effectively addressing secondary students' amotivation starts with an understanding of their perceptions regarding motivation and their beliefs about what may be causing amotivation. Are teachers asking and listening?

A review and discussion of Mihaly Csikszentmihalyi's Flow: Professional Implications of Optimal Experience

Edward J. Caropreso, University of North Carolina Wilmington

A review of Csikszentmihalyi's 1990 book Flow: Professional Implications of Optimal Experience will address the principle elements underlying the Flow construct, followed by a brief literature review about Flow experiences in educational settings.

Engage me: I'm waiting!

Lakisha Gates Rice, North Carolina Central University

This presentation provides an array of tools and strategies that engage and motivate students. The session demonstrates how to navigate student ownership of learning and how to create a rich and purposeful learning environment.

43. Remembering the impact teachers have on students

Paper/presentation

I still remember* . . . Using the narratives of former students to explore teacher impact

Julie Hasson, Florida Southern College

The purpose of this study is to explore teacher impact through the narratives of former students. The stories provide insight into the lasting influence of a teacher on students' lives.

A journey in three acts

Stacy S. Stetzel, Manchester University

Heidi E. Wieland, Manchester University

A Journey in Three Acts reflectively analyzed meaningful, impactful, and preferred instructional methods of first-year undergraduate students. Qualitative impressions and preferences informed a reimagining of course content and field experience.

44. The use of stories in teaching and learning

Paper/presentation

Using parables and storytelling to aid learning and retention

John Long, William Woods University

From ancient times until today, educators have used stories to assist learners in retaining important information. Revisit this ancient technique and learn how it can still be applied today.

Building up and breaking down: Family immigration story project

Rebecca Pruitt, Lewis University

A qualitative analysis of 68 Family Immigration Story projects revealed the assignment's potential for interrupting the dehumanizing educational experiences of students while breaking down biases of their White peers.

45. Stages of teacher development

Panel discussion

The role of teacher development and motivation in supporting teacher leadership

H. Carol Greene, East Carolina University

Bryan S. Zugelder, East Carolina University

Mark L'Esperance, East Carolina University

This interactive session will highlight how a graduate program considered stages of teacher development and motivation to enhance its program quality and support future teacher leaders.

46. Teachers' role in free market capitalism

Paper/presentation

Teachers' role in free markets: How teachers abet the foundations of free market capitalism

Thomas E. Deering, University of Phoenix

This presentation emphasizes the role of public school teachers in a free market economy, given that two of the four factors of production are human factors: labor and entrepreneurial ability. A market driven, free enterprise system needs effective human capital, enhanced through an educated populace.

47. Racism in education

Panel discussion

Race, racism, and racists in education: Practices for change

Jessica Heybach, Aurora University

Mary Beth Hines, Indiana University

Wafa Mohomad, Aurora University

Kimberly R. James, East Baton Rouge School Parish

48. Most powerful books: Melville, Wolf, and O'Leary

Paper/presentation

Captain Ahab as a unique model for the relentless educator

Daniel Barth, University of Arkansas

Often damned as a fanatic, Melville's Captain Ahab serves as a cogent model of the relentless educator who refused to give up on challenging special needs and oppositional students.

Journey toward oneself

Robert C. Kleinsasser, Arizona State University (Tempe)

Christa Wolf's The Quest for Christa T—a powerful book to consider how Gen Z, Gen I, and post millennials seek coming to oneself and become an educated person.

A call to Action: On Fire by John O'Leary

Jacquelynn Pleis, Charleston Southern University

Precious is a book that speaks on a personal and professional level, as as On Fire by John O'Leary. From disaster to opportunity, our personal perspective makes all the difference.

49. Using digital technologies: Digging deeper

Paper/presentation

Digital storytelling and multiple literacies

Taralynn Hartsell, Valdosta State University

Creators can express themselves through digital storytelling. The presentation examines the design, development, and application of digital storytelling for teaching, learning of skills, and enhancing creative expression.

Scholarly alternatives to academic writing

Christopher Strople, University of Maine at Farmington

This presentation explores the possibility of different educational ends by providing evidence of scholarly alternatives to academic writing. Gen Z students can leverage the abundance of media and technology available to them.

Not either/or but both: The double-edged potential of print literacy

Kathleen A. J. Mohr, Utah State University

It is time for educators to re-envision what constitutes an “educated person” in the 21st century by negotiating an effective interrelationship between print and digital literacies.

Time for a paradigm change: Paivio’s dual coding theory as a frame of reference for learning (and teaching) in the 21st century

Edward J. Caropreso, University of North Carolina Wilmington

A review of the literature on the development of Paivio’s dual-coding theory will be presented and discussed. In addition, educational applications of dual-coding theory in contemporary personal and professional experiences will be discussed.

50. Teacher burnout, teacher shortages, and the struggle to attract and retain teachers

Paper/presentation

Job satisfaction and burnout as conditions for teacher retention and leadership

Christopher Benedetti, Plymouth State University

This presentation will share study findings that indicate significant predictive relationships between job satisfaction and burnout in teachers to understand conditions for teacher retention and leadership in schools.

Critical shortage areas in education: What does that really mean?

Carol Bartlett, Indiana University Southeast

This presentation includes information on critical shortage areas in education as well as initiatives Indiana University Southeast, School of Education has embarked upon to address this need within Indiana and surrounding areas.

More than money: A structured scholarship program to develop future mathematics teacher leaders

Paula Jakopovic, University of Nebraska at Omaha

This presentation will focus on how one university's NOYCE scholarship program develops promising future mathematics teachers through structured leadership training, teaching assistantships, and outreach planning and implementation.

Development and education: Partnering on teacher retention through philanthropy

Cindy Van Buren, University of South Carolina

Erin T. Eigenbrot, University of South Carolina

Hear the story of collaborative efforts between an Assistant Dean and the Director of Development in privately funding an innovative program to assist with induction and retention of new teachers.

51. Problems with charter schools / Betsy DeVos

Paper/presentation

The impact of closed charter schools on students, parents, and communities

Rosa D. Borgen, Barry University

The closing of charter schools can be a traumatic event for students, parents, and entire communities. What are the academic, emotional, and psychological effects of such closings? Be part of this timely and important topic.

Modern-day school segregation and charter schools: An analysis of research

Carrie Buckner, University of Tennessee

Forrest Nettles, University of South Carolina

Cindy Van Buren, University of South Carolina

All too often in the field of education, good ideas get funded and/or implemented, but the outcomes just don't happen. Introducing project management and education—two fields partnering with purpose.

55. Alternative approaches to clinical experiences for teacher education students

Paper/presentation

Christ the Servant Teaching Corps: Transformative clinical experiences for teacher candidates and K-5 students

Betty M. Marko, Walsh University

Jeannie DeFazio, Walsh University

Walsh University and Our Lady of Peace School have developed a collaborative partnership designed to provide tiered co-teaching with a two-fold purpose: to provide a residency experience for our students and a differentiated instructional delivery model for K-5 students.

Cutting edge or cutting ego?: Training teachers in the virtual learning environment

Anni Reinking, Southern Illinois University

This qualitative study examined how elementary education candidates used a cutting edge technology called the virtual learning environment (VLE) to receive real-time feedback and mentoring without adversely affecting (cutting) their egos.

Reading with the community: Reimagining pre-service literacy experiences in third space

Donna Bulatowicz, Montana State University

This paper presents research concerning pre-service teachers leading literacy activities in a community-based summer slide program. The literacy activities were with children in Section 8 housing while being mentored by faculty.

56. Trump, and the problems he brings

Paper/presentation

Trump, truth, and tweeting: The epistemological impact of new media

Eric C. Sheffield, Western Illinois University

This presentation utilizes Neil Postman's analysis of media (media is the metaphor) to examine the epistemological impact of twitter.

Jessica Heybach, Aurora University

Witness the daily barrage of discourses, a form of public pedagogy, that deem others as something to be feared, imprisoned, assaulted, violated, and disgusted with. This paper investigates the gendered public discourses of hate in the Trump era.

57. Taking care to understand ourselves and our biases

Lucy K. Spence, University of South Carolina

In this paper, the affordances and constraints of generous reading are traced through its development, and an empirical study, which resulted in a discourse analysis revealing raciolinguistic ideology.

Using a psychiatrist's path from concentration camp to existentialism for understanding and addressing experiences of teachers and students of today

Paulette Harris, Augusta University

Tevin Middleton, Augusta University

Millennials/post-millennials are entering school systems in increasing numbers and will replace previous generational identities. Psychiatrist Viktor Frankl's experiences in concentration camps will be explored to increase self-awareness of educators.

58. Coming to understand Gen Z

Paper/presentation

Generation Z: The more things change, the more they stay the same

Anna F. Lyon, Wright State University

Jimmie Sue Gruber, Wright State University

While Generation Z teacher candidates live in a technological world, they learned to read in traditional ways. This presentation explores how Generation Z teachers approach the teaching of literacy.

Can you label a generation that has shunned labels?

Kimberly Murie, John Brown University

Gen Z is a label used to help understand a generation. Part of being Gen Z is shunning labels, so can you use a label to define a group that doesn't believe in labels?

The importance of engaging millennials in the university classroom and Gen Zs in the K-12 classroom: Strategies of communication and engagement at both levels

Kathleen Fabrikant, Georgia Southern University

Cindy S. York, Northern Illinois University

Angie Hodge, Northern Arizona University

This will be an interactive dialogue between the attendees and the presenters throughout the presentation to gather other ideas and methods pertinent to the presentation topic.

59. Social-emotional learning: Teaching practices and relationship building

Paper/presentation

Behavioral and social emotional supports to increase student success in a diverse school: Guidelines for successful implementation of school-wide support

Kelli Dougan, Fayetteville Public Schools (AR)

Kristina Hudson, Fayetteville Public Schools

This presentation describes the lessons learned from implementing support for students struggling in the area of behavior and social emotional development in a diverse 7th and 8th grade school.

Micro-dosing social-emotional learning: How do we prepare teacher leaders to address students' feelings?

Todd Finley, East Carolina University

Preservice and in-service teacher leaders might resist social-emotional learning, but not if you insert short SEL exercises into every activity. Learn inspiring activities to change minds and hearts.

The roadmap to high quality teacher-student relationships

Ashley E. Poklar, Cleveland State University

Research indicates relationships matter in classrooms, but is genuine relationship building teachable? This presentation highlights specific traits teachers adept at relating with students share and explores implications for teacher training.

60. Critiquing the global educational reform movement

Panel discussion

Challenging the foundations of education

Alan Canestrari, Roger Williams University

Bruce Marlowe, University of South Carolina Beaufort

Annie Winfield, Roger Williams University

This session offers a model of critique in order to question the power and authority of those who have set the trajectory of the current global educational reform movement.

61. Understanding people and changing schools:

Some things to think about

Paper/presentation

Examining generational theory through the lens of self-determination theory, and the lens of Maslow's hierarchy of needs

Angela Ford, George Washington University

Examining generational theory through a lens of motivational theory to identify changes over time may benefit those trying to create optimal motivational atmospheres to increase learning.

The distinction between restructuring and reculturing and its missing conversation party: Incorporating the concerns of Gen Z learners in educational change efforts

David A. Escobar Arcay, Nova Southeastern University

The educational change literature has documented restructuring and reculturing efforts. However, students are often the missing party. This paper suggests ways to incorporate students' experiences and concerns in these efforts.

Fourteenth Concurrent Session

9:40 – 10:55

62. Helping students grapple with the hard truths of America's educational history

Paper/presentation

"What are those buildings?": (Re)considering our role as teacher educators in light of a sight-seeing trip and archival study

Christopher Strople, University of Maine, Farmington

How do teacher educators and their students grapple with the hard truths about education's history? What if those truths challenge the institution's pursuit of accreditation? Two teacher educators share the story of their research and teaching.

The facts and lessons of history and its ethics: Re-visiting the educational experiences of underrepresented and marginalized students in the U.S. public school system and envisioning the nature and task of education

David A. Escobar Arcay, Nova Southeastern University

One of the tasks of education comprehends the justice dimension. Justice demands equality. This session re-visits the de-culturalization of historically marginalized, underrepresented, and disenfranchised groups in U.S. schools as an exercise to envision the nature and task of education.

63. The skills of practices of teacher leaders

Paper/presentation

Barb Ramos, Simpson College

Explore teacher leadership definitions, models, and practices as well as the skills needed to participate in a teacher leadership system. Gain access to web-based materials for teacher leadership skill development.

Teacher leadership

Jaime Coyne, Sam Houston State University

Tori Hollas, Sam Houston State University

Mae Lane, Sam Houston State University

In this presentation, we share the results of an ongoing study with graduate students and their experience in regards to leadership opportunities.

Teacher leadership preparation

Kelly Lenarz, Trinity Christian College

This presentation will provide research and data on teacher leadership focused on both in-service and preservice teachers, and it will provide a framework of leadership opportunities for teachers in K-12 schools.

64. Special education in the age of Gen Z

Paper/presentation

Laura Rychly, Augusta University

In this presentation, the book Thinking in Pictures: My Life With Autism is presented as a tool for teachers to better understand what it means to engage in "visible thinking."

Include me: Creating sensory-friendly extracurricular activities for students on the autistic spectrum

Vaughn Bicehouse, Slippery Rock University

This presentation will communicate how one organization created sensory-friendly plays for students on the spectrum. A step-by-step outline will be shared with participants so they can replicate this process and foster inclusion in schools and in the community.

Preparing general educators and teacher leaders to work with special education students:
What is the impact, if any, of the different generations on teaching practices?

Barbara Govendo, Lesley University

Gail S. Cahill, Lesley University

Results of a national survey regarding general educators who teach students with IEPs will be presented. Suggestions for teacher preparation and teacher leadership will be reviewed from a generational perspective.

Fifteenth Concurrent Session

11:05 – 12:20

65. The self-expectations and self-efficacy of teachers and teacher candidates

Paper/presentation

Expectations of entry level teacher by building administrators versus teachers' self-expectations

Ann H. Burns, Eastern Kentucky University

Evaluation and communication in a multigenerational school setting. Differences in expectations and perceptions of professionalism and teacher expectations.

Narrative research in secondary teacher education: Examining the self-efficacy of content area teacher candidates to inform teacher educators

Tiffany Karalis Noel, University of Virginia

This study used narrative inquiry to examine the factors attributed to the self-efficacy of ten teacher candidates as they moved through their 16-week student teaching experiences.

General self-efficacy and teacher sense of efficacy of Generation Z teacher candidates: A sequential explanatory mixed methods study

Rochelle Cortino, Texas A&M University Corpus Christi

This mixed methods study determines and describes the general self-efficacy and teacher sense of efficacy of Generation Z teacher candidates and how they view their role in education as first-time teachers representing the most unique and diverse generation to date.

66. Continuing segregation / Continuing academic achievement gaps

Paper/presentation

Re-segregated schools and school (Dis)identification

Barbara A. Saurer, University of Alabama

This paper presents preliminary results of a quantitative analysis of student (dis)identification in three high schools in a metropolitan school district in the South that has re-segregated.

Kanesha'shay Adams, University of Alabama

What are the factors which contribute to the academic achievement gap in African American students? This research project examines several factors which have impacted the success of African American students.

67. Sidebar room

Paper/presentation

11:05 – 11:40

Angela Guzman Palacios, University of the Incarnate Word

The literature on Gen Z, Hispanic university students is sparse. This mixed methodology research intends to explore the impact that culture may have on their learning preferences.

11:45 – 12:20

Ayan Mitra, University of South Carolina

A needs assessment of elementary school and early childhood classrooms in relation to rhyming instruction and what teachers and parents think when it comes to children acquiring language skills.

3. Reports/ Comments from Superintendent and/or Staff

- 3.A. We hired a total of 23 furloughed federal employees.

Amy Haberzettle deserves great kudos for doing one on one training with these folks to get them into the classroom quickly. We also got a call from the regional food bank and we opened up the high school to host the food bank even after the furlough ceased serving 20-22 families.

- 3.B. Presentation: Ranchwood Elementary School

Kristin introduced Candy Myers the music teacher. She got a grant from the Oklahoma Foundation for Excellence and went to the Czech Republic. Was with musicians 16-80 years old for two weeks. She did a blog while she was away and a slide show. She grew technically and her students gained a lot through this journey. Mr. and Mrs. Rowe introduced me to the grant opportunity. Denton Behymer lead the 2nd grade pack in coin conversion lessons with Czech crowns and Euros. The third graders learned how to be copyists. Using ink and working by candle light they had to duplicate sheet music for the price of one Euro per page. The class blended online with small group activities beginning with Bach. Then the students made marionettes with Mrs. Ferris' assistance.

- 3.C. Analysis of Midyear State Allocation

While the district grew in Average Daily Membership and Total State Aid, through the State Aid Equalization Reductions our actual allocation was a loss of $786,759.00 from the state.

With what we lost at the state and gained due to local growth, our budget is less $32,197.00. Mr. Wells asked if there is anything we can take to our elected officials to share our concern? Tomorrow is the Legislative Breakfast and you can ask them to hold charter schools to same funding formula. There are about 61 students in our district who attend virtual school outside of our school district for whom we do not receive funding.

4. Board Member Communications and Announcements

- 4.A. Individual Board Member Comments

Mr. Rowe: With respect to the foundation for excellence - please apply, encourage your teachers to apply, ask if you need help reviewing, it is a self-directed grant. It can be any teachers of any subject.

Mrs. Cannon: I love our district. Participating in the community, doing things at the high school for the food bank, hiring those on furlough...I love this district.

Mr. Behymer: I went to the welcome they have for elementary students going to Middle School. It was very informational and was a great job.

Mr. Wells: I second Mrs. Cannon's comments. This is a great district.

Mr. Van Meter: No comment.
