Registration and Scheduling:

All pre-registration meetings have been completed for the 2024-2025-course registration process. Once requests have been entered our scheduling team will determine the number of sections based on student registration requests. We will then begin the process of scheduling building department recommendations to maximize the number of students requesting courses we can accommodate in the actual 2024-2025 master schedule with our current staffing.

Staffing:

We are currently accepting applications for either a Social Studies or Spanish teacher. We have interviewed a few candidates on the Spanish side but have not made a hire at this point. We did have a couple of late potential candidates develop that we will explore before we switch directions and focus on a Social Studies teacher.

Mr. Moody has decided to retire and accept the new JAG position at Seward High School for next school year so we are currently accepting applications for Activities Director. We have had some good applicants early in the process with February 19th as the closing date.

If you see Mr. Moody please help us in thanking him for his over thirty years of service to SHS including the last nine as Activities Director, we are lucky that he is still going to be at SHS in another capacity. Mr. Moody has an extremely hectic job that has many late nights and weekends. Mr. Moody has done a tremendous job as Activities Director and we will have very large shoes to fill.

ACT Prep:

We are seeing good progress with the majority of Juniors with the ACT Prep. The snow days have set us behind where we want to be but we will find a way to catch our students up and get them the best prepared we can for the March 26th Test.

Seward County Synergy Showcase:

Our CTE programs will be participating in this new event on March 27th at Harvest Hall beginning at 1 pm. The Seward Chamber of Commerce is inviting area businesses to see all of Seward County High Schools "showcase" some of the exciting things that we have going in our schools. All of our CTE teachers are preparing multiple booths to highlight some of our trade programs and offerings.

January/February Newsletter:

Please see our Newsletter at <https://www.smores.com/67e0s>

Parent/Teacher Conferences:

The third round of parent/teacher conferences was held, on Wednesday, February 7th from 5:30-7:30 p.m.

- Sophomore Parent Session:

A special program was held for the parents of sophomore students during conferences. The school counselors shared information regarding a wide array of post-secondary planning topics.

Lunch Study Hall/After School Study Hall:

Lunch Study/After School study hall is still going well as we are past the halfway point of the term. On average we are starting the week with 40 students failing a class. On average, by the end of the week, we are down to nine students failing a class. The number of students starting the week in Lunch Study Hall has decreased each week.

School District of Seward
Board Report
Shannon Hall-Schmeckpeper, Director of Special Services
February 12th 2024

February is a busy time during the school year as we focus on finishing the 2023-2024 school year strong and preparing for the 2024-2025 school year.

I will attend the NASES (Nebraska Association of Supervisors of Special Education) Legislative Conference in Lincoln on Feb. 8th and 9th. This conference lets us hear updates about what bills are being introduced in the legislative session. On Thursday afternoon, there will be a round table on the following topics:

- Teacher Retention Efforts
- Educator Shortage Solutions
- ABA Therapy in Schools
- Embedding Universal Design in the District
- Preschool LRE Toolkit
- Creating Continuity for Systems-Involved Students

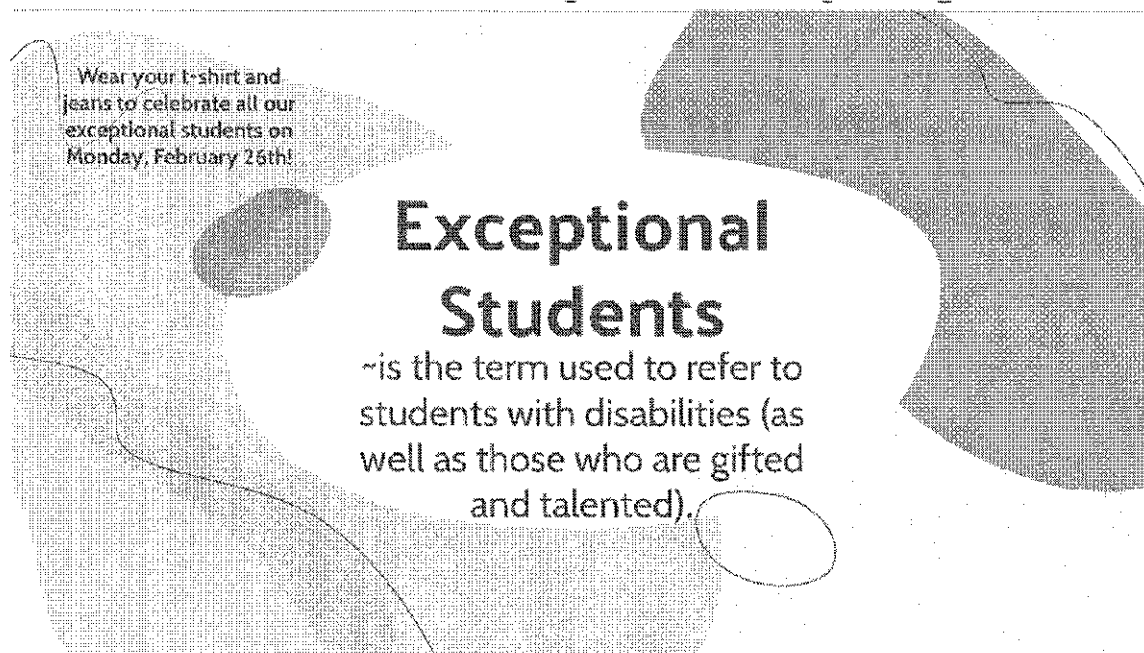

Then, on Friday, we will hear from NDE and a representative from KSB Law on legal disputes they see in identifying students with special learning disabilities.

On February 26th, I will attend the Nebraska Transition Conference in Lincoln. Topics will include advocacy, complex learners, transitions and interagencies, work-based learning, inclusion, systems of support, and supported decision-making.

The testing window for the ELPA 21, the required English Language Proficiency Test for our English Language Learners, opened on February 5th and closes on March 15th. Mrs. Jocelyn Gray will administer the test to all our ELL students. This also includes our 4 students who are on monitor status. We will also be scheduling a time in the near future to review our LEP.

February 26th is the 5th annual District-Wide Exceptional Student Day. Exceptional Student Day is a way to celebrate ALL of our students. Our district wants to bring awareness to ALL exceptional Seward Public Schools students. Special t-shirts are available to purchase to wear on this day.

Beth Seegebath will be sending out slides again this year that highlight the 13 verification categories and strategies that can be used to support students with exceptional needs. We will also focus on the specialists who work with our students (i.e., school psychologist, speech-language pathologist, occupational therapist, physical therapist, hearing and vision specialist, and paras).

As we start to prepare for preschool next year, we have invited children to attend an hour open house on March 15th so that they can see the classroom, meet the teachers, and we can meet the children. All of our current 3-year-olds are planning on returning to the program next year, so that we will have limited spots available in the afternoon. But will welcome a new class of 3-year-olds in the morning. Preschool will continue to be a huge need for our community. We serve 49 students on IEPs ages 3 to 5. Thirty-four of these students attend our preschool at the elementary school. The other 15 students are served at community preschools.

Below are the current Special Program Enrollment numbers. Please note that enrollment changes were students graduating at mid-term, students moving in or out of the Seward District, and students no longer qualifying for special education services.

Again, thank you for all you do to support our community!

February Staff Development News

A newsletter for the Seward staff by Dr. Doming

February

A message from Matt

As February rolls around and the weather starts to feel a little better, the thought of bright spring days creeps into my mind. This is the time of year when I have to be most resilient. Winters in Nebraska can be unforgiving and limit my opportunity to recharge by being outside and engaging with nature.

I am sure that this is also the case for many of you, and certainly for our students. I am thankful for Jamie and her team and the ideas that she sends us each month. I am also thankful for Amanda and the EHA for sending us competitions and ideas on how to stay mentally healthy.

This is the time of year when we need to embrace those ideas and support each other. We also need to recognize when we need additional support and seek it through Jamie, the EAP, or another provider.

Below, you will find an article I found about being resilient. There are some great points to reflect on.

Thank you all for what you do for our students and our community. We are doing legacy-shaping work, and spring days are ahead!

5 Key Resilience Traits

This message is excerpted from the book Life Coaching for Successful Women: Powerful Questions, Practical Answers by Valorie Burton.

Research shows that resilient people think differently. They have a set of skills – sometimes learned, other times innate – that allow them to persevere, manage stress, and triumph in the face of challenges. In the midst of your current challenges, which of the five traits of resilient people is it time to lean on?

1. They are authentic.

Resilient people are at peace with their humanity. Perhaps it is because their mistakes along the way have humbled them, or life experiences have helped them accept their own vulnerability, but resilient people don't let imperfections hinder them. They don't think failing makes them a failure. They learn as they go, making course corrections that lead them to positive outcomes.

As a leader, your ability to navigate challenges and lead effectively in an uncertain environment can set you apart and positively influence those you lead. Your team looks to you for clues about how to respond in these ever-changing times. Organizations that thrive with change are those who have high psychological capital – a workforce that has the resilience to see the big picture, embrace a new vision, and work together to persevere towards it.

2. They are flexible thinkers.

Even if they initially struggle with negative thoughts, resilient people are self-aware enough to notice when their thinking is counterproductive. They don't jump to conclusions or make assumptions. Instead, they gather the facts they need to move around obstacles and face challenges head-on. If something isn't working, they make adjustments. They find aspects of the challenge that are within their control, and they exercise that control.

3. They are (mostly) optimistic.

It's hard to bounce back from setbacks when you see every obstacle as the end of the world. Research shows that optimists live as much as nine years longer than pessimists. But it isn't just about positive thinking. Resilient people see risks and take precautions to prevent problems. When faced with a challenge, they are more likely to say, "I can get through this."

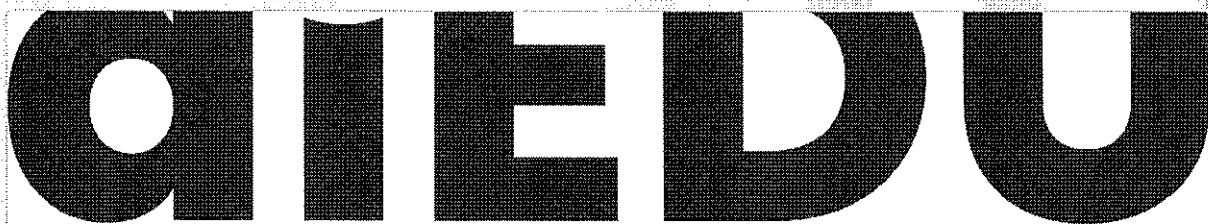

4. They reach out.

Resilient people don't go it alone. They have close friends and are not too proud to ask for help when they need it, talk out problems, or help others in need. When faced with a stressful situation, just knowing you have support can alleviate the pressure.

5. They use their strengths.

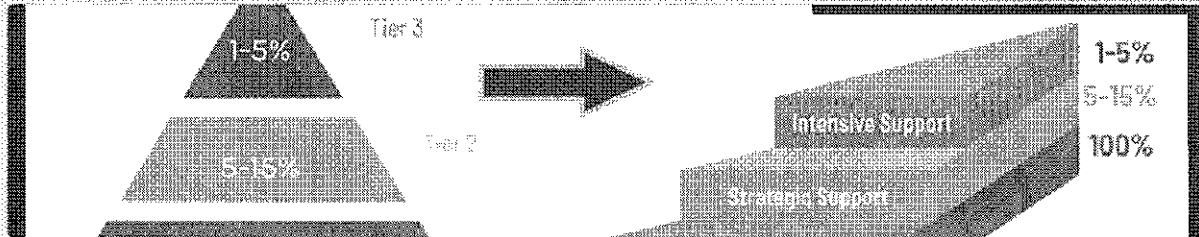

Everyone has innate talents and strengths. When faced with a challenge, there is power in tapping into those strengths – the things that come naturally to you. It takes less energy to use your strengths – and, in fact, you are energized by them. Know what your strengths are and use them.

February 2024 Board Report for Curriculum and Staff Development

Board Members,

February is here and with it comes progress with curriculum, strategic planning, assessment, instruction and everything in between! Our teachers and students have done a good job persevering through the winter storms and keeping learning at the forefront.

Curriculum

At our February PD Day, we will be looking at social studies materials and selecting materials that we would like to have presented at the March PD Day. Our plan is to have our materials selected in March, solicit parent feedback, and present our suggestions to you in the April board meeting. We are also working on the art curriculum review, while there will likely not be a textbook, there may be some equipment/material purchases made to support the curriculum that the teachers design.

Instruction

We had our first Remote Learning Day of the year a few weeks ago. For the most part, the day was a success. At the high school level, all of our courses are already on Canvas and the students are well-versed on how to access these courses. After 10:00, students were able to log-in to their courses and work on the learning designed by their teachers. At the middle school, students access their learning through Google Classroom or through their student email account. This also worked well; however, we did have a few students without access to a Chromebook as we only send Chromebooks home with 8th grade students. We did make the decision as an Admin team to send Chromebooks home with students without devices on "weather watch" days to prevent this in the future. At the elementary level, we did not have school, however we are prepared for the future with packets and we will pass along information to parents using Seesaw.

Staff Development

On our February Staff Development Day, we will have a variety of learning opportunities. Our Social Studies and Art Curriculum cycle team will be examining instructional materials and work on our curriculum templates. We will also have building leadership MTSS meetings and in the afternoon each building will work on site planning for the strategic plan.

Assessment

Winter assessment has concluded and we have begun to arrange our Spring testing. This will include NSCAS growth for 3-8th grade students and the ACT test for our 3rd year cohort (Juniors) students.

Thank you for your support!

School Board Report

- In February we will be selling Crush Pops the week before Valentine's Day. This was an event we did at the middle school but they no longer participate.
- Bluejay Blankets were sold and distributed this past month. We are happy to announce that we made a profit.
 - We are planning on raffling a blanket or two off at an upcoming basketball game. Tickets will be $5 and that will put your name into the bucket once.
- One of our committees is helping host a CPR training session. They have flyers up around the school for students to sign up. They are working with the Red Cross on this event.
- At the end of February, we plan on visiting other high schools around our area and talking to them about school spirit, hallway decorations, and all things student council. We hope to gain new ideas and implement some of them in our school.

Cheer (Layla Sugden): We are starting to wind down a lot in cheer. We are focusing on our next few upcoming basketball games. This team has been working on stunts to perform during the announcements of the starter's names.

FFA (Cole Luebbe): FFA is coming up on their CDEs that have a bunch of events from welding to floriculture. We go and compete against other schools from our district. In December we went to York and had district LDE which is more of a speaking event than a hands-on. We are competing in these competitions to try to make it to the state in March.

FBLA (Matthew Wegman): FBLA is beginning the new year with several competitions like UNK Business Day and UNL Business Day. We are using these competitions to not only win but also prepare us for state FBLA in April. While preparing for the competitions, we are also celebrating FBLA week.

Show Choir (Piper Soucek): The Show Choir got 5th place this past weekend in Hastings at the Tiger Clash. This week and next, we are preparing to go to Central City next Friday and compete against other schools in the area. Everyone is so excited to see how much we have grown over the past few months and watch our scores grow.

FCCLA (Julya Metschke): FCCLA is starting the year off with participating and running Donkey Basketball, partnering with FFA and Skills to fundraise for our clubs. Next week, we have our district competitions and our members are excited to show off their STAR projects (Students Taking Action with Recognition) and earn a chance to compete at state in April.

Key Club (Taylor Ball): Key Club is excited about our plans for the New Year. We plan on meeting here in the coming week and will be discussing our big project, the Cultural Fair.

Speech (Taylor Hostert): due to winter weather our first meet was cancelled. The team will compete for the first time on Saturday the 27th in Wilber and is excited to receive feedback from judges.

Boy's Wrestling (Kaydon Mueller): The Boy's wrestling team continues to improve and learn from our mistakes. The team continues to show up and give a hundred percent each practice, Are next meet is Sat, the 27th we will be on our way to conference and excited to see how it goes as everyone is counting down the days to state. We will continue to work as a team to get better.

S.M.A.R.T. PARENTING TIPS FOR ONLINE SAFETY

S

Set-up: Devices/Accounts/Passwords

It is important for parents to know how to set up their children's devices for several reasons. Overall, knowing how to set up a device empowers parents to create a safe and healthy digital environment for their kids. It allows them to strike a balance between protecting their children and allowing them to explore the online world in a responsible and beneficial way. While knowing how to use parental controls and security features is essential, it goes beyond technical knowledge. Parents should also be familiar with current online trends, dangers, and age-appropriate content to effectively guide and advise their children on safe and responsible digital citizenship. Remember, technology evolves rapidly, so it is important for parents to stay informed and adapt their strategies as needed to ensure their children's continued safety and well-being in the digital world.

M

Monitor: Online Use/Connections

Monitoring your children's online use and connections isn't about spying, it's about striking a crucial balance between protecting them from potential harm and fostering their digital independence. Monitoring your children's online use and connections is an ongoing process, an investment in their safety, well-being, and digital citizenship. By striking the right balance and focusing on open communication, you can empower your children to navigate the online world safely and confidently.

A

Approve: Apps/Games

Parents' approval of their children's apps and games is crucial for several reasons and goes beyond simply saying "yes" or "no." It's about creating a safe and enriching digital environment that fosters safety, security, healthy development, trust and communication. Approving apps together creates opportunities for open communication about online activities. Discuss the reasons behind your decisions, explain potential risks, and set expectations for responsible use. This builds trust and strengthens parent-child relationships.

R

Restrict: Content/Permissions

It's incredibly important for parents to restrict their child's access to inappropriate content. It's about creating a safe and age-appropriate online environment where children can explore and learn while being protected from potential harm. Here are some helpful approaches:

- Open communication: Talk to your children about the dangers of inappropriate content and set clear expectations for their online behavior.
- Parental control tools: Utilize parental control features offered by devices and platforms to filter content, limit screen time, and monitor online activity.
- Age-appropriate resources: Choose websites, apps, and games specifically designed for children's age and developmental needs.

Talk: #StartTheConversation/Teach

Open and repeated conversations are your most powerful tool for online safety. By prioritizing open and repeated conversations about online safety, you can equip your children with the knowledge, skills, and confidence they need to navigate the digital world safely and responsibly. Think of it as an investment in their future, just like teaching them any other important life skill. Technology and online trends evolve rapidly, making it impossible for parents to know everything. Having ongoing conversations about online safety allows you to stay updated on the latest trends, apps, and challenges kids might face. You can adjust your guidance accordingly. Remember, these conversations don't have to be one-sided lectures. Here are some tips for making them more engaging and effective:

- Start early and adapt the conversation to your child's age and development.
- Make it a natural part of everyday life, not just a one-time event.
- Ask open-ended questions and actively listen to their concerns.
- Use real-life examples and relatable scenarios to illustrate your points.
- Focus on teaching them strategies for staying safe, not just scaring them.
- Be open to learning from them as well.
